First Ministers Sworn In at Government House in Pattullo's Cabinet Reorganization

Norman Whittaker, Speaker in the last Legislature, is shown being sworn in as Attorney-General by Lieutenant-Governor W. C. Woodward (left). The Saanich member replaces Gordon S. Wismer, who was defeated at the polls. Hon. John Hart, who retains his portfolio of Finance Minister in what he frankly hoped would be a coalition cabinet, looks on. (Centre), Hon. W. J. Asselstine is sworn in as Minister of Labor and Commissioner of Fisheries. The Atlin member was Minister of Mines, Trade and Industry in the old cabinet. His selection for the labor portfolio is blamed for the resignation of Hon. George S. Pearson, the Nanaimo member, who held it since the Liberal government was first elected. Premier Pattullo, left, in the right picture, surveys the proceedings of what has probably been the most eventful day in even his long political career, as his cabinet colleagues take the oath. With him is Hon. Wells Gray who remains at the head of the Department of Lands and the Department of Municipalities.

Final Bulletins

LIBERALS DISCUSS ARMY SERVICE

OTTAWA—It was learned this afternoon that conscription was discussed at a caucus of Liberals today, and that there was agreement amongst the members attending with the statement on the matter made in the Commons earlier this week by the Prime Minister.

After the 2½-hour caucus Mr. King said: "The Liberal Party is absolutely united."

AT NEW YORK

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States Navy Department announced this afternoon the British cruiser Caradoc is in port at New York.

The corvette Dianthus is at Charleston, S.C.

Presumably the vessels are in port for repairs, refueling or other assistance under the Lease-Lend Act.

Commons Speeds Up

OTTAWA (CP)—The House of Commons will sit tonight and possibly Saturday in an effort to reach a quick adjournment.

32 MEN LOST

LA LINEA, Spain (AP) — Thirty-two men are known to have been killed and more than 60 injured in the loss of the British aircraft carrier Ark Royal, according to unofficial reports which reached this border town just opposite Gibraltar tonight.

These reports, from Gibraltar, said the Ark Royal went down about 45 miles east of Gibraltar. (Earlier Story Page 16).

Quake Loss Million

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The earthquake, the most severe in eight years, which rocked the metropolitan area early today, caused an estimated $1,000,000 damage in one suburban community alone, Torrance.

Plant Accident Inquest

VANCOUVER (CP) — An inquest was opened today on the death of Daniel Jones, 31, of Burnaby, instantly killed Thursday when crushed beneath the wheels of a traveling derrick at the Burnaby plant of the Dominion Bridge Company. He was hanging to the front end of the steam-powered derrick when he lost his hold.

GRAND COULEE GETS FACE LIFTED—Artistic concrete lines replace temporary wooden forms marking construction areas at Grand Coulee dam in Washington, giving it a new "face." Because of the size of the Columbia River valley in which it rests, the huge structure is dwarfed from no matter what point it is seen, but length of the dam is 14 city blocks.

Pattullo Shuffles Cabinet
Pearson Quits, King 'P.W.D.' Head

British Columbia's new cabinet was announced at noon by Premier Pattullo, as follows:

Minister of Finance—Hon. John Hart.

Attorney-General—Norman W. Whittaker, K.C.

Minister of Mines, Trade and Industry—Hon. C. S. Leary.

Minister of Labor—Hon. W. J. Asselstine.

Minister of Public Works—Thomas King.

Minister of Agriculture—Hon. K. C. MacDonald.

Minister of Lands and Municipalities—Hon. A. Wells Gray.

The sensation of the day came when Hon. George S. Pearson quit as Minister of Labor when Premier Pattullo insisted on moving him into the provincial secretary-education minister's office without taking opposition members into the cabinet.

Premier Pattullo has not named anyone yet to succeed Dr. G. M. Weir as Provincial Secretary and Minister of Education.

Another sensational development was a statement of Finance Minister Hart that he favored coalition government for the duration of the war.

R. H. Carson, Liberal, member-elect from Kamloops, is expected to succeed Mr. Whittaker as Speaker.

In his letter of resignation to the Premier, Mr. Pearson said he felt the government had not the confidence of the people or of the House and that steps should have been taken to bring about an arrangement with the opposition parties for the duration of the war, without the necessity of another appeal to the electors.

Governor Swears in New Ministers

Swearing in of Mr. Asselstine, Mr. Leary and Mr. Whittaker took place in the green and white drawing-room at Government House this morning at 11.30, before Lieutenant-Governor W. C. Woodward. Mr. King will be sworn in at Vancouver Court House tomorrow morning.

THOMAS KING
to be Works Minister.

HON. K. C. MACDONALD
still Agriculture Minister.

HON. G. S. PEARSON
quits cabinet.

So confused was the situation at the Parliament Buildings this morning that Mr. Whittaker was not advised of the Government House ceremony until the other ministers were assembled there. He arrived 15 minutes late.

Not until the ministers were being sworn in did Press Gallery reporters, who were invited to attend Government House, know the set-up of the new cabinet. Even then they were officially left out in the cold regarding the public works and provincial secretary - education minister's selections.

At 10 Premier Pattullo called a meeting of his executive cabinet. There was much excitement in legislative corridors. It was quite evident something had gone wrong. Dr. Weir and Mr. Hart had a long talk with Mr. Pearson. It was after this meeting that the rumor spread that Mr. Pearson would quit rather than give up his labor portfolio. Mr. Pearson did not attend the cabinet meeting.

The meeting ended at 10.45 and the Premier was the first out of the executive chamber. To waiting reporters he said he had no announcement to make.

At Government House, following the swearing-in, Mr. Pattullo told the press he would have a statement within the hour. Before leaving Government House he conferred privately in the morning room with His Honor.

Hart Declares For Coalition

Mr. Hart, telling reporters he favored coalition government, said: "I feel we should have a coalition, either with two or three parties. A coalition government for the duration of the war would gain the confidence of the people and enable us to put forth our best efforts toward winning the war."

The Premier said he had asked Dr. Weir to carry on until the appointment of a permanent successor.

In the meantime came word that Premier Pattullo was re-elected in Prince Rupert by a majority of 118 over George Weaver, C.C.F. candidate. The official count Thursday showed the Premier polled 1,681 votes to 1,563 for his opponent.

Political circles this morning were of the opinion it might be possible for Dr. Weir to carry on indefinitely, without taking a seat on the floor of the House, with another minister, probably the Premier, presenting estimates and answering questions.

R. H. CARSON
may be new Speaker.

Pattullo and Pearson Tell Why They Differed

Premier Pattullo's statement, on the resignation of Labor Minister Pearson, follows:

"I am sorry to announce that Mr. Pearson has resigned from the government as he has done notable work in the Labor Department.

"On Wednesday I told Mr. Pearson that I proposed to have him appointed Provincial Secretary and Minister of Education. He suggested that he would prefer to take the portfolios of Provincial Secretary and Labor. I pointed out that that would not fit in with the total organization which I had in mind, and upon my saying that I intended to ask Mr. Asselstine to take the portfolio of Labor, Mr. Pearson ga· his assent.

"This morning, after I had completed arrangements, Mr. Pearson came to my office and said that he did not like the shuffle of portfolios, and when I could not agree to make any change, he said that he did not like the approach to the question and consequently could not accept the portfolios as suggested.

"I replied that under those circumstances I supposed there was nothing for him to do but to tender his resignation, which he did, and which I accepted."

Mr. Pearson's letter to Premier Pattullo follows:

"I understand from my conversation with you this morning that it is your intention today to form a new cabinet, taking into the cabinet new members to fill the vacancies caused through loss of seats of Hon. Dr. Weir and Hon. Gordon Wismer.

"I understand also that it is your wish that I relinquish the portfolio of Labor and assume the duties of Provincial Secretary and Minister of Education.

"I regret to have to say that I cannot agree to enter the new cabinet as I do not feel that the government has the confidence of the people nor of the House, and I feel that steps should be taken to bring about an agreement with the opposition parties in the House for the carrying on of the government for the duration of the war without the necessity of another appeal to the electors, which I feel certain must result from an attempt to force a new cabinet upon a House in which the government has a minority of members supporting it.

"I also feel that the present members of the cabinet and the private government members should have been given greater opportunity to express their views upon the very critical situation that exists, before a new cabinet was formed.

"I regret to say that I cannot agree, under these circumstances, to enter the new cabinet."

Collishaw Pays Visit to Mother

Air Commodore Raymond Collishaw, outstanding among the Empire's greatest airmen, visiting Canada on a special mission, reached Vancouver at 1.30 this afternoon by Trans-Canada Airways plane on his way to Nanaimo for a happy reunion with his mother.

The distinguished flier was met at the Sea Island airport by Mayor J. W. Cornett of Vancouver.

It was not immediately known whether Air Commodore Collishaw would first come to Victoria or proceed direct to Nanaimo.

Apparently the famous airman intended to surprise his mother, Mrs. J. E. Collishaw of Nanaimo, as up to this morning she was not aware that her son was on his way to the coast. Letters she had received recently indicated he would be unable to come to the coast at this time, and she had not seen news stories announcing her son's western trip by air.

Air Commodore Collishaw's plans while on the Pacific coast are indefinite, but it is considered probable that he will find time to pay a visit to this city.

An invitation was sent to him in the east to address the Victoria Men's Canadian Club, which the Royal Air Force commodore regretfully declined owing to pressure of business in the east.

He has since been asked to reconsider his decision, and it is hoped he may find it convenient to speak here.

MAY CALL MEN UP TO AGE OF 30

OTTAWA (CP)—The government, it was learned on high authority this afternoon, has under consideration suggestions for extending the call-up of men for compulsory military service for home defence to include single men and childless widowers up to the age of 30.

It was understood that if this plan should go into effect a system of selective draft by lot would probably be used.

The present notice of liability to call extends only to single men and childless widowers of 21 to 24 years as at July, 1940, and those becoming 21 since that date.

Kirkland Conference

KIRKLAND LAKE, Ont. (CP)—Officers of the International Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers' Union late today announced their willingness to meet the Kirkland Lake gold mine operators and Labor Minister McLarty at Ottawa. A telegram was sent the minister advising him of the union's decision.

The operators and the union had been deadlocked all day on where to hold the meeting, called by Mr. McLarty in a last minute attempt to avert a strike. The operators had insisted it be held in Ottawa, the union that it be held in Kirkland Lake.

Had Permission

OTTAWA (CP)—Ernest Bertrand, Liberal, Montreal-Laurier, told the Commons this afternoon he had received permission from the Justice Department to use a document containing instructions to enemy agents in a radio speech last summer.

He was answering questions raised recently by Rev. E. G. Hansell, N.D., Macleod, Alta., who wanted to know by what authority Mr. Bertrand read a "secret document" in a radio speech.

Ford Workers Vote C.I.O.

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—The employees of the Ford Motor Company of Canada Ltd. voted to have the United Automobile Workers of America, C.I.O., represent them as their bargaining agent in a ballot conducted by the Federal Department of Labor, it was announced this afternoon.

The vote was 6,833 for the union, 4,455 for acceptance of the company's offer to negotiate with committees elected from the employees and 46 spoiled ballots.

LIFT RESTRICTIONS ON GAS DELIVERIES

OTTAWA (CP) — Munitions Minister Howe announced in the House of Commons this afternoon that regulations restricting deliveries of gasoline to service stations will be suspended, pending introduction of the coupon system of rationing which he announced last week.

The restricted hours of sales for filling stations will continue as now in force.

"The present situation still demands conservation," he said.

Russia Rejects Japanese Protest

TOKYO (AP)—Russia replied today to Japan's protest on the sinking of the liner Kehi Maru in the Sea of Japan November 5 and informed sources said they understood that all major Japanese claims were rejected.

Ambassador Constantin Smetanin handed the reply to Foreign Minister Shigenori Togo in a brief foreign office meeting.

Japan's protest alleged the Kehi Maru sank after hitting a drifting Russian mine. It held the Soviet government responsible. Japanese accounts put the total of dead and missing at 126.

KURUSU HOPES AS HE REACHES U.S.

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Saburo Kurusu, one of Japan's top diplomats, said here today that if he didn't hold hope for peace in the Pacific "why do you think I came such a long way?"

Hurrying to Washington for conferences with President Roosevelt, he arrived aboard a Pacific clipper plane.

"I came to offer my all-out assistance to my colleague, Ambassador Nomura in Washington" he said. "I fully realize the difficulty of my task.

"But I hope to break through the line and make a touchdown."

WEATHER DELAYS R.A.F. RAIDERS

LONDON (CP) — British sources declared today it was becoming increasingly evident that the R.A.F. never would be able to bomb Germany all night every night from its present airdromes on the misty British Isles.

Bad weather stopped the bombing of Germany again Thursday night, the fourth in a row.

Air Ministry records show that since the R.A.F. stepped up its offensive on Germany to aid Russia unfavorable weather has kept British airmen away from Germany for 40 nights.

Informed quarters acknowledged the Germans had a distinct advantage through possessing bomber bases scattered over a front stretching more than 1,000 miles from France to Norway.

RAIDS BY RUSSIANS

BERLIN (AP)—Enemy planes flying singly dropped a small number of high explosive bombs in eastern German territory Thursday night and caused casualties among the civil population, the high command said today.

German planes carried out an attack on wharves and supply works in the harbor of Falmouth, England, with "good effect," the communique claimed.

It said bombers damaged a large merchant ship south of Lowestoft.

U.S. MARINES TO LEAVE CHINA

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Roosevelt announced today the government had decided to withdraw U.S. marines from Shanghai, Tientsin and Peiping, China.

That will take all the U.S. marines out of China, the President told a press conference. About 970 of them have been stationed in the three cities. The President would not discuss capital speculation about the withdrawal of these troops being linked with efforts to obtain a better understanding between this country and Japan.

He said he had no definite plans yet to see Japan's special envoy, Saburo Qurusu, who is flying to the United States to discuss the Far Eastern situation.

Asked whether he thought war could be avoided in the Pacific, Mr. Roosevelt said he certainly hoped so.

Wide Russian Gains Except in Crimea

Associated Press

Russia's armies announced the most extensive series of victories in the war with Germany today, covering every major theatre from Rostov-on-Don in the far south to the frozen Arctic region of Murmansk.

Only in the Crimea, by Soviet accounts, was the situation still critical.

Before Moscow, the Red armies pressing a furious counter-offensive were reported to have stormed and recaptured 20 villages during the last 24 hours in the Kalinin sector, and German military dispatches admitted the Russians were attacking "in considerable force" with tanks and infantry.

Nazi Lines Pierced Near Leningrad

In the battle of Leningrad, the Soviet radio said Russian troops had broken clear through Nazi siege lines around the old Czarist capital, which the German had claimed was practically sealed off from the rest of the U.S.S.R. They stormed through to the enemy's lines in the face of strong resistance."

At Rostov, guarding the northern approach to the Caucasus and its oil, the Russians said they had routed a motorized division of Hitler's Elite Guards. The entire Nazi drive in that key sector was reported all but stalled.

Tass, the Soviet news agency, reported also that tank-fed German shock troops had been thrown back from the outskirts of Tula, 100 miles south of Moscow, after a bloody two-weeks battle.

"The Germans were here yesterday; today only their corpses are here," Tass said.

15 German Attacks Broken By Russians

The news agency said the Germans hurled 15 consecutive tank attacks at the village of Rodeshenny, on the southern outskirts of Tula, and gained a temporary foothold before being smashed back with heavy casualties.

Soviet dispatches which reported the series of smashing counter-blows at Kalinin, 95 miles northwest of Moscow, and at Maloyaroslavets, 65 miles southwest of the capital, reported also that Russian troops in the Arctic Murmansk zone had captured several strategic heights and forced the Germans to retreat several kilometers.

The Soviet radio said the initiative in the 43-day-old battle of Moscow now has definitely passed into Red Army hands, "but the battles are continuing."

Nazis Not Claiming Any Big Gains

Meanwhile, Friday night German military dispatches admitted the pace of battle on the freezing Russian front had slowed to what they claimed was a yard by yard Nazi advance in the Crimea and along the bitterly-contested central front.

The Crimean fighting was summed up in Berlin as a gradual tightening of the German grip on Sebastopol and Kerch, with fierce fighting necessary for every gain.

A bulletin from Hitler's field headquarters said German troops were "in front of Kerch," gateway to the Caucasus oil fields, with the city and harbor under the fire of Nazi artillery.

Thursday the high command had claimed German assault troops were actually storming the port.

Russians Speed Reinforcements

Soviet reinforcements, some of them drawn from the Rostov-on-Don sector, were reported racing to defend the Caucasus coast against a German drive across the narrow Kerch strait from the Crimea.

The Germans said their air force had put the coastal batteries at Sebastopol, principal Crimean seaport and naval base, out of commission by bomb hits, destroyed military installations in the harbor and damaged two freighters.

Bombers were said to have sunk two transports totaling 5,500 gross registered tons.

Nazi spokesmen claimed the Russian Black Sea fleet now is almost homeless and that conquest of the Crimea would enable the German air force to eliminate Russian shipping from those waters.

The capture of Sebastopol, which those sources predicted, would deprive the Red navy of its best remaining harbor in the Black Sea.

Dispatches to Red Star, the Soviet army newspaper, said Gen. Gregory K. Zhukov's central front armies had driven the Germans from the east bank of the Nara River, in the Maloyaroslavets sector, and dislodged the Nazis from a fortified height there in fierce hand-to-hand fighting.

Another Safe Convoy

Airmen, Troops Arrive In Britain From Canada

SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND (CP)—Many hundreds of Canadian troops and Empire airmen have arrived at their camps and reception depots after landing at a British port, where they completed a stormy but safe voyage from Canada.

The arrivals, whose debarkation was announced Thursday night, included a field regiment of the Royal Canadian Artillery, Royal Canadian Army Service Corps units for the 3rd Division and Canadian armored formations.

In the large contingent of airmen, all graduates of the Commonwealth Air Training Plan, there were Canadians, Australians, New Zealanders and Britons. They were pilots, gunners, observers and ground crew.

(Officials at the east coast Canadian port from which the convoy sailed described it as the largest of all the movements of Commonwealth Training Plan graduates to Britain from this Dominion.)

There were also fliers for the American Eagle Squadrons of the R.A.F. and young United States army officers who will be attached to the British army and R.A.F., presumably to study radiolocation. These officers are all skilled technicians, carefully selected for this assignment from all parts of the United States.

LIVELY TIME

One medical officer with the airmen, who refused to reveal his name, said he was knocked off his feet by baggage thrown about his cabin during the storm. He said that when he got up he stepped on a marble from a Chinese checker board and fell again, cutting his nose.

Among the group of tradesmen leading aircraftmen were A. G. Jones of Vancouver and H. R. Thompson of Vernon, B.C.

FROM DUNCAN

AN EAST COAST CANADIAN PORT. (CP)—There were many varied backgrounds among the men who made up Canada's latest donation of troops to the defence of Britain.

Trere was R.S.M. Albert (Mike) Harman of Duncan, B.C., who used to be an instructor in a Chinese army. There were Capts. Joe Lamb and Stew Adams, who used to play in the National Hockey League.

There was D. C. Campbell, a former Calgary reporter, and Capt. John Southam of the family that owns Campbell's paper, and a string of others through Canada.

Harman is a white-haired chap who said he had been doing a "lot of things" since he came home from China in 1933. He fought with a British outfit in the last war, so this is his third army.

STORMS LASH U.S. NORTHWEST

SEATTLE (AP)—High wind and a rainstorm which lashed the northwest Thursday brought death to at least four persons, interrupted electrical transmission, stopped traffic at several points and caused considerable property damage.

In Snoqualmie Pass in the Cascade mountain range east of here John I. Miller, about 60, of Wapato, and his son, J. W. Miller, 35, of Yakima, died when a tree crashed through the cab of their eastbound truck during the windstorm. Both were apparently killed outright.

Storm sewers were taxed to capacity in Seattle as 1.68 inches of rain fell in 18 hours—10 times the normal for the day. An electrical storm cut off power to some points near Lake Washington for some time.

In Coeur d'Alene, Idaho, a high wind blew a tree across an electric power line and blacked out the city for an hour and 20 minutes.

Coastal shipping was endangered as wind forced small craft to run for port when the gale reached a velocity of 57 miles.

Word Awaited From Litvinoff Plane

LAURENCE A. STEINHARDT

MAXIM LITVINOFF

SIR WALTER MONCKTON

TEHRAN (AP)—The Soviet Embassy here said tonight it had no news of the plane in which Maxim Litvinoff, Sir Walter Monckton, Laurence A. Steinhardt and Quentin Reynolds, among others, are reported missing en route here from Kuibyshev, Russia.

Up to nightfall no reports had come from either south Russian or north Iranian airfields along the route. Officials cautioned against alarm, however.

The British legation here reported that an American woman journalist, Alice Moats, was among the passengers.

A report Thursday that the plane had landed at Pahlevi, Iranian Caspian seaport, proved erroneous, the embassy said. A shuttle plane flying from the Caucasian port of Baku had been mistakenly identified as the plane carrying the ambassadors, officials explained.

HOLIDAY INTERFERES

However, communications with the interior of Russia are considerably delayed and a Moslem holiday today prevented a thorough check of northern Iran by native telegraph authorities. Therefore, Russian and British sources said alarm over the lack of news was not justified.

Litvinoff, new Russian ambassador to Washington, and Steinhardt, U.S. ambassador to Russia, were on their way to Washington.

PASSENGER LIST

The British legation in Teheran said telegrams received early this week from Kuibyshev, Russia, from which the plane was reported to have taken off Wednesday, indicated those aboard included:

Sir Walter Monckton, British information service head at Cairo; Litvinov's English-born wife and their child; Anthony Greenwood, who is Monckton's secretary and a son of Arthur Greenwood, British minister without portfolio; either Air Marshal Collier or Wing Commander Hallawell; a Captain Bell of the British embassy; Philip Jordan, a British newspaperman; Quentin Reynolds and Alice Moats, American correspondents, and the Iranian ambassador to Moscow, Mohamed Saed.

NO COMPULSION TO JOIN U.M.W.

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Roosevelt, asking the C.I.O., United Mine Workers and steel company heads to continue negotiations to avert a strike in the captive coal mines, told them today that "the government will never compel" the minority non-union miners affected by the dispute to join the union.

"I tell you frankly," he said, "that the government of the United States will not order, nor will Congress pass legislation ordering a so-called closed shop."

The President asked the mine union leaders and the steel representatives to give him a report on an agreement to continue production by Monday, or at least a progress report.

A spokesman for the mine workers announced soon afterward that they would accede to the request for three days of direct negotiation on the dispute.

Earlier today the policy committee of the United Mine Workers had voted today to continue the fight for a union shop.

AXIS' NORTH AFRICA PLANS SMASHED

By LARRY ALLEN

ALEXANDRIA (AP)—Admiral Sir Andrew Browne Cunningham, commander-in-chief of Britain's Mediterranean fleet, said today that British naval successes in the central Mediterranean had put a serious crimp in Nazi plans for an offensive in the western desert.

The admiral interviewed aboard his flagship, said the smashing of big Axis convoys, causing loss of thousands of Axis soldiers and huge cargoes of war supplies, was "certainly delaying if not preventing" any Axis drive toward the Nile.

The Germans and Italians badly needed fresh troops and equipment, he said.

Mutual Abandons Berlin Broadcasts

NEW YORK (CP)—John Paul Dickson, Berlin correspondent for the World-Mutual Broadcasting System, has requested his office to discontinue his news reports because "censorship has made them useless at the present time."

In a 17-minute telephone conversation with Adolf J. Offinger, Mutual's program director here, he cited four principles of German news restrictions.

They were:

1. Broadcasters are frequently instructed to report material that is prepared by German propaganda agencies.

2. Broadcasters have recently been excluded from visits to the front.

3. Their personal observations on news have been too frequently deleted and they are not allowed to quote directly from German newspapers.

4. Broadcasters may make no mention of what Dickson termed "the two most important news stories of the day—the crisis in Czechoslovakia and the Jewish situation."

The recommendation to cease carrying the Berlin news period was accepted by mutual and Dickson's program Thursday night was canceled.

Success at Bardia Disclosed

Commandos Make Raids

LONDON (CP)—The Ministry of information today announced the newly-formed "commandos"—Britain's toughest shock troops—already have been used "on occasions," including one raid on Bardia in Libya last April.

It said the commandos, trained for sabotage and raiding, are "still rather a mystery force and the work they do is the sort, which, is so far as it is deceptive, cannot be revealed so long as telling of it might give information to the enemy."

The Bardia night raid achieved its purposes of making Axis troops believe a full-scale British attack was being launched from the beaches and of causing destruction of Axis stores, the ministry said.

The commandos went ashore from landing boats which were described as "shallow-bottomed craft with armored sides rising above the heads of the men, who sat in three lines, 30 to a boat. At the bows were ramps which let down and enabled three lines to move out together so that all could get ashore quickly."

The troops reached the town without being detected and blew up a road bridge. When their work was finished a coast defence battery on top of an escarpment "had been blown sky high" and a great dump of new rubber tires brought across the desert for refitting supply lorries was "burning merrily."

Two Axis motorcycle scouts escaped the attack, which the ministry described as "lucky," since their report that a large-scale landing was in progress caused the hurried dispatch of tanks and armored cars and lightened Axis pressure on the British front line.

Start Arming U.S. Ships As Neutrality Act Goes

By DONALD A. YOUNG

WASHINGTON (AP)—United States merchantmen regained complete freedom of the seas today by act of Congress, and with it the right to mount guns and shoot if attacked.

The House of Representatives finished the legislative job Thursday by scrapping the Neutrality Act amendments which since 1939 have prohibited American shipping from entering the combat zones or belligerent harbors.

The vote was 212 to 194—a comforting victory to administration leaders who had expected a photo finish where two or three votes could mean defeat.

The final roll call ended the hardest battle yet waged to uphold President Roosevelt's hand in a matter affecting foreign policy. And it came after the tense house had heard a dramatic, last-minute appeal from the President.

By its vote the house joined the Senate in broadening the original house ship-arming bill to end all Neutrality Act restrictions on the movement of vessels flying the stars and stripes.

As soon as the legislation was approved, Speaker Sam Rayburn signed it, and the strokes of his pen began the official scratching of the Neutrality Act bans from the statute books.

TECHNICAL DELAY

There remained the formality of adding the signature of Vice-President Wallace before the masure could go to the White House for the final name: Franklin D. Roosevelt. However, an objection by Senator Charles McNary (Republic, Oregon), the minority leader, made it necessary for the Vice-President to wait until the Senate reconvenes Monday before signing.

Nevertheless, there was abundant evidence the technicality of the brief, three-day delay would not prevent the administration from putting the legislation into speedy effect.

On the contrary, reports were current the preliminary work for the arming of cargo vessels may already be under way. The Navy Department said merely that plans were ready to proceed at once.

Navy Secretary Knox declared the vote meant that both "ships and the men will be available to deliver defence aid and materials" in such quantity and at such places as to aid materially those who oppose "Hitler and his attempted domination of the world."

State Secretary Hull hailed the House's action as "an exceedingly wise and timely decision."

WHEELER OPPOSITION

But a much different appraisal came from Senator Burton Wheeler, Democrat, Montana, one of the administration's bitterest critics on foreign policy.

Mr. Roosevelt "can't take us into war with that kind of a vote behind him," Wheeler asserted.

"If he can't get more than a majority of 18 votes after exerting all the pressure he did, he had better go slowly because many of those who voted with him are not in favor of getting this country into war."

Move Gratifies British People

LONDON (CP)—An authoritative source said today repeal of the most important provisions of the United States Neutrality Act would "refresh and reinvigorate the will of the British people to fight the war to victory."

The British press and public also acclaimed the United States' action as a step toward fuller American war collaboration.

The authoritative statement said:

"News of the repeal of the principal remaining provisions of the Neutrality Act has been received with much gratification in London.

"This important step is regarded as yet another instance of the determination of the United States to afford to the countries resisting Axis aggression practical and invaluable assistance in the common cause, removing as it does an obstacle which impeded fulfillment of America's determination to play a leading role in the overthrow of Hitlerism."

PRESS COMMENT

Most of the newspapers devoted their main editorials to the vote. Among their views were these:

The News Chronicle—The revision takes "America one more long step toward bearing a full share of the hazards and burdens of a war which matters quite as much to her as it does to other free people of the world."

The Daily Telegraph and Morning Post—It "gives effect without delay to a legislative change that restores to the United States the fullness of its historic national objective—freedom of the seas."

The Daily Express—"Limited shipping was a brake on our strategy and our power to aid Russia and supply our own armies abroad. Roosevelt has lifted the brake. He has struck Hitler the hardest, shrewdest blow he has delivered. We cannot yet assess the full possibilities of this all or where it will lead America. But we know it is an immensely powerful new weapon come into our hands."

The Evening News declared the United States' action represented "one of the great decisions of the war, a decision whose consequences tower into the future."

PRIVILEGE OF RICH

A. W. COLES, millionaire independent member of the Australian Parliament who was responsible for the downfall of former Prime Minister Fadden's government, told the representatives he would not object to the labor government's taxation proposals designed to hit the rich.

"The privilege of being hit first is one the wealthy should welcome," he said. "The government's taxation proposals have indicated the intention of going ahead fearlessly with plans to convince the community that a real state of emergency exists."

Mr. Coles is the owner of a vast chain of stores and is one of the country's highest taxpayers.

'DECISIVE PERIOD'

British Labor Minister ERNEST BEVEN appealed to British industry "to put your back" into an increased effort for war production. During the "decisive period" of the next six months, Mr. Bevin declared, "all concerned will have to play the game if victory is to be achieved, as I am certain it will be."

NO COMPLACENCY

SIR SAMUEL HOARE, British ambassador to Madrid, who returned to his post recently from a visit to London, told a press conference in Madrid he saw in Britain no signs of complacency "but on all sides a desire to make the war effort 100 per cent greater." He said that nowhere in Britain was there the "slightest support" for peace negotiations with Germany.

'WISER COUNSELS'

SIR JOHN G. LATHAM, Australian Minister to Tokyo, said in Sydney it is possible that "wiser counsels" may prevail in Japan. "There are many reasons why Japan should not incur the grave risks of further warlike adventures," said the minister, now in Australia on a brief visit.

ADVENTURER DEAD

Dead at Weston-Super-Mare, England, is CAPT. ROGER POCOCK, 76, traveler and adventurer who served with the old Northwest Mounted Police during the second Riel Rebellion and later founded the Legion of Frontiersmen.

Son of a New Zealand clergyman who established himself in Canada, Pocock joined the Royal Northwest Mounted Police in 1884 after he was educated in England. He was invalided from the police when he lost part of one foot and all his toes from frostbite.

As missionary, seaman and soldier he continued the colorful career which took him to the far corners of the world. He served in the South African War and the first Great War.

One of his exploits was solitary horseback ride in 1899 from Fort MacLeod, Alta., 3,600 miles along the Rockies to Mexico City. He founded the Legion of Frontiersmen in 1904.

DEVOID OF NERVES

DR. ROBERT GILLESPIE, psychiatric specialist for the R.A.F., arriving in New York, said R.A.F. pilots are so devoid of nerves he didn't have much to do. The morale of both the air force and the people is extremely good.

RABBIS ON STRIKE

A story from Elizabeth, N.J.: Five rabbis, members of Shotin's Union, Local 370, New York, staged an hour-and-a-half sit-down strike at Feldman Brothers cattle slaughter house, threatening the concern's output of kosher meat. Alexander H. Feldman, company president, granted their demands. They sought flat $5 weekly increases for salaries which range from $65 for the chief rabbi and his assistant to $45, $33 and $29 for the others.

HORSE IN HOUSE

From Leonia, N.J., this story: ANDREUS ANDREWS came from the west and has respect for horses. Recorder Herbert L. Smith suspended a $10 fine for violation of the Leonia sanitary code by keeping a horse in his house, but warned Andrews that failure to obey an order to remove the animal would result in a $100-a-day penalty.

CHINA'S RED ARMY STILL GROWING

By J. D. WHITE

PEIPING, North China (AP)—China's Red army guerrillas are more than holding their own against four years of Japanese "extermination," judging on a basis of Japanese reports alone.

Japanese estimates vary as to the number of the Communist troops, but none places the total Red strength at less than 300,000 regular troops and 200,000 irregulars. Some Nipponese calculations credit the Reds with as many as 400,000 first line fighters.

The Japanese recently asserted 100,000 Chinese Communist troops were being moved across Siberia to aid the Russians in their stand against the Germans, but this has not been confirmed.

There has been little real connection between the Chinese Communists and their fellow Reds in Russia, and reports they had sent troops into Russia were received skeptically by experienced observers, especially in view of the Japanese origin of the reports.

Inasmuch as there were only 70,000 Red troops when Japan invaded north China in 1937 with the avowed intention of uprooting the "Red peril," the Nipponese campaign against the Reds—four whole years of it now—cannot be described as a bowling success.

Democracy's Voice

BRITISH PEOPLES EVERYWHERE have welcomed enthusiastically the decision of the United States Congress to arm American merchantmen and send them through all the combat zones of the seven seas. London's newspapers acclaim the action our neighbor has taken with outspoken gratitude; and the Evening News, perhaps, epitomizes the general sentiment of all Britons when it describes it as "one of the great decisions of the war, a decision whose consequences tower into the future." All are agreed, of course, that this practical reaffirmation of United States policy may, sooner or later, involve the great Republic in an all-out war against those nations which have challenged her right to freedom of ocean traffic. Shooting already has begun, as Mr. Roosevelt has said, but the important point now is which side shall have the privilege of firing the last shot. Our neighbor does not intend to permit the Axis powers to enjoy that distinction.

Although the vote of 212 to 194 in the House of Representatives was obviously a close one—the Senate decided the issue by 50 to 37—the nature of the discussion which preceded it was another example of how a democracy conducts its business in critical times such as these. What is true of the Congress of the United States, moreover, is true of the Parliament at Westminster. In London at the present time the elected representatives of the people are enjoying the privilege of presenting their views on the Churchill government's conduct of the war in particular and on the "state of the nation" in general. Just as the rabid and more moderate critics of the Roosevelt administration experienced no restraining influence whatsoever in their discussion of the Neutrality Act amendments, so are the members of the British House of Commons enjoying complete liberty to air their opinions; and, when all is said and done, the Prime Minister of Britain will ask them to bring in their verdict. This simple and sensible procedure must be baffling to the heads of the totalitarian states and their satellites. But it is a process that will remain the fashion of free peoples long after the works of Hitler and Mussolini have been catalogued as a nightmarish dream.

Senator Meighen

MR. MACKENZIE KING HAS INFORMED the House of Commons that so far as he is concerned he does not intend to assume the responsibility of supporting any policy of conscription for military service overseas without consulting the people on the subject. When he accepted the leadership of the Conservative Party of Canada on Wednesday, Senator Meighen, head of the famous "shadow cabinet" of the summer of 1926, declared himself in favor of "compulsory selective service over the whole field of war" and voiced the view that "a government on a strictly party basis," exercising what he calls "despotic powers," is an anomalous "state of affairs" in a war of "life and death." He added that such a government cannot bring the whole nation "to its maximum endeavor," and anything less "means our ruin."

Apart altogether from the question of pre-election pledges—both Mr. King and Dr. Manion appealed to the people of Canada in March, 1940, for their votes on the distinct understanding that conscription was not an issue—and notwithstanding the currently conflicting views of the Prime Minister and the newly-elected leader of the Conservative Party, Senator Meighen is realist enough to know that his political past, like that of any other politician or statesman, is bound to confront him. And, in view of the condition of which he complains, some of the policies he has advocated in less than two decades bear new examination at this stage.

It will be recalled, for example, that Mr. Meighen, then in opposition, said his reply to the British government's inquiry, in 1922, as to whether the Dominions were prepared to send troops to stop the Turks at Chanak, would have been "ready, aye ready." The tact and judgment of General Sir Charles Harington—commanding the Allied forces of occupation in Turkey at that time—succeeded in bringing the issue to the conference table, at which it was settled satisfactorily to all concerned. But what did Mr. Meighen say at Hamilton on November 16, 1925, when he was anxious for support in Quebec? He forthrightly advocated consulting the people in case of war before troops were again sent out of Canada—a policy he repeated the following month during the by-election campaign in the Bagot constituency of the Ancient Province. And in the general election of 1926, the sequel of the famous constitutional issue, a heckler at a Toronto meeting on September 7 of that year challenged him on it. Mr. Meighen replied: "Let no one be alarmed; there's nothing I'm afraid to answer . . . when the time comes to face the circumstances described in that Hamilton speech, I will be prepared to discuss that speech." Page 29 of the Canadian Annual Review, 1926-1927, contains this: "The time did not come, however, for him to discuss the matter . . . and undoubtedly his silence cost him many votes that were normally Conservative." Mr. Meighen was defeated in Portage La Prairie and resigned as Premier on September 25. After six years of private life, Mr. Bennett, then Prime Minister, "summoned" him to the Senate on February 3, 1932.

Nine years later, in a public address in Toronto on January 22 of this year, we obtained another glimpse of Senator Meighen's variable philosophy. He had roundly scored Rt. Hon. Ernest Bevin—one of Mr. Churchill's ablest and trusted aides—for what he termed his Socialistic views. This was altogether too much for Mr. M. J. Coldwell, C.C.F. member for Rosetown-Biggar, who took the Senator to task in the House of Commons on February 24 (page 1033 of Hansard for that date), and explained: "What Mr. Bevin and the other leaders of Britain's dynamic labor forces have said is that out of this war must come a newer and a better way of life, a newer and a better society in which man will be able to find security and the right to enjoy the fruits of his labor and the fruits of the great scientific age in which we live." Then Mr. Coldwell quoted Senator Meighen's own words:

"Is that what we are battling for? I think not. If this is the direction in which we move; if property, profit, the reward of toil, the fundamental instinct of the human race to gain, to acquire, to have, to reach somewhere is taken away, then I, for one, do not feel that we have anything worth fighting for."

Senator Meighen has a perfect right to his own opinions about the kind of world this war should eventually produce. He is an able man, a man of keen intellect, a master in debate, as loyal a Canadian as any of the 12,000,000 people who make up the population of this great Dominion. We set the record down here, however, not in a spirit of partisanship, but as a matter of public interest and importance. We leave it to all fair-minded Conservatives to contemplate—Conservatives who are sick and tired of the party penchant for flag-waving when political expediency appears to dictate.

Canada's War Labor

IN ITS NOVEMBER ANALYSIS OF CANADIAN Business Conditions, the Alexander Hamilton Institute, New York, proves the rule that the spectator sees the game from the best perspective—whether it be a war effort or peacetime economic processes. It tells us, then, that the constant increase in the number of men in the fighting services of the Dominion, accompanied by the sharp increase in the volume of business activity, has created a serious problem as to how to replace those men who are being absorbed by the three forces, and to provide workers for the accelerated business activity.

The number of people employed in Canada, for instance, rose from 3,106,000 in August, 1940, to 3,430,000 in August, 1941, an increase of more than 300,000. These came primarily from the unemployed although some came from the ranks of people who had never worked before. There is now, of course, no unemployment problem. All people able and willing to work have already found employment. Hence, in order to increase the number of workers, the Dominion will have to look for other sources, primarily among students, women who never worked before, and those married women who are free to work outside. This total is estimated at 1,140,000 persons, composed of 200,000 students over 16 years of age, 450,000 women who never worked before, and 490,000 employable homemakers.

If the Dominion government is forced, therefore, to have recourse to this so-called labor reserve of "manpower," it is evident that many married women will have to be gainfully employed. The same applies also to women who have never worked before. The greatest supply of labor reserve in Canada thus rests in the class of women who either have never worked before or who are employable homemakers. And as we have said in these columns several times, if the authorities at Ottawa would make public the details of industry's requirements in the matter of labor, together with the potential unused supply of men for the fighting services, the "conscription issue" could be discussed more intelligently.

SEVEN POINTS FOR JAPAN

From New York Post

It's time for the United States to draw up a program which could form a basis for better relations with Japan. We should announce our proposals to the world, for they would have great effect in Japan, in China and everywhere where decent human beings are fighting the fascists.

Our seven points should go roughly like this:

1. Complete break by Japan from the Axis.

2. Withdrawal of all Japanese troops from China, Indo-China and Siam.

3. Renunciation of Japan's plans to dominate the entire Far East.

4. Withdrawal of troops from the Siberian border, coupled with a solemn pledge not to attack Russia while she is engaged on her western front.

5. A guarantee that United States shipments of aid to Russia will suffer no Japanese interference.

6. Recognition of China's sovereign right to make economic agreements with whomever she pleases without interference by Japan.

7. Cessation of Japanese efforts to undermine the solidarity of the Pan-American nations.

We should tell Japan that these are our minimum terms; that we hope to avoid conflict in the Pacific; that unfortunately peace is likely to be maintained on no lesser grounds.

GRITS AND TORIES

IN ANY ATTEMPT to analyze the current state of Canadian politics a person writing in this newspaper is suspected, I suppose, of being an old-time Grit, with never a fair word to say about the Tories. This suspicion is too naive. Most of us are neither Grits nor Tories any more and vote both ways, and all ways, as I have done. Politics is such a blur that the old labels have no meaning, except for persons seeking political office. Therefore, one should be able to say, without suspicion of dark plotting, that the choice of Mr. Meighen as head of the Conservative Party is a tragic portent in our time.

Not that Mr. Meighen lacks ability. In some ways he is a great man. His mind is clearer than Mr. King's, his tongue sharper, his 6-o'clock-in-the-morning courage beyond doubt. If, Mr. Meighen had stayed where he belonged by nature, in the courts or in business, he would have been an unqualified success. In politics he has been a very qualified success, to put the best possible face on it. He has headed two governments which collapsed immediately and he has led his party a third time to defeat. Now, after 20 years, the Conservative Party comes back to him and back to the place where it stood just 20 years ago. That is not making much progress in 20 years.

NOT HIS FAULT

BUT DO NOT BLAME Mr. Meighen. He has remained true to his ideas and to himself. He has demonstrated his complete integrity to all his unpopular theories, which the people will not accept. No, the meaning of his elevation now must be sought outside Mr. Meighen. It must be sought in the Conservative Party—in the total bankruptcy of the Conservative Party.

The Conservative Party has ceased to represent a separate idea in Canada and all parties, reaching this point, disappear. That may be happening to the Conservative Party now. I don't know. But unless the Conservative Party eventually does find a separate idea of its own that is important to the people it will disappear inevitably and all the Meighens, Maitlands and Anscombs of the nation, however sincere, cannot save it. You might as well prop up a corpse and hire a ventriloquist and pretend that it is a living man.

The evidence of this bankruptcy is to be found in the fact that the party could secure no leader but Mr. Meighen. None of the other possibilities had sufficient appeal. And why is this? Obviously because the Conservative Party is not attracting the right kind of men, the young men, the vigorous men, the men with ideas.

That is not to say that the Liberal Party is attracting all such men. Unhappily it is not. But the Liberal Party today is a party of giants, for all its faults, compared with the Conservative Party, and no one who has looked over the House of Commons will deny it. The electorate sensed that in the last election when, unimpressed by the Liberals, it yet gave them a record majority because there was nothing else to do. There was no one else to vote for.

REARGUARD ACTION

IN THIS PAINFUL situation Mr. Meighen becomes really the leader of a rearguard action. He fights to hold the remnants of the party together while it reforms and rebuilds—if it can. But Mr. Meighen can not reform or rebuild it. He is constitutionally incapable of it, for his ideas are as foreign to the mind of the electors as the ideas of the last century, to which they belong. Mr. Meighen can fight a great rearguard action. He can leave more corpses of reputation on the road, but he cannot offer Canada a permanent alternative to Mr. King. He might even break Mr. King under certain conditions by a war issue (though I fancy Mr. King, always good in his footwork, will not allow such a situation to arise), but that does not restore the Conservative Party because it does not introduce a policy or an idea suitable for the future government of this country.

The tragedy of this situation is that the Conservative Party comes to Mr. Meighen and Mr. Meighen to the party 40 years or more too late.

WINCHELL WISECRACKS

The Big Parade in New York: C. Aubrey Smith—as British as a monocle. . . . Rita Hayworth—the reason eyes were invented. . . . The three Andrews Sisters wearing spangled skirts, spangled gloves and spangled hats. Looked like a Christmas Tree-o. . . . Owwwwwch! Who threw that?. . . Wendy Barrie in the Roosevelt Grill—with a 10-penny nail dangling from her bracelet. "They say I look like one," is the explanation. . . . Swiftly Morgan greeting a sucker at the House of Chan with: "Sit down, pal, and have a check."

Sallies in Our Alley: In "Back Street" Margaret Sullivan played the other woman opposite Charles Boyer. In their latest, "Appt for Love," she plays his wife, who has to contend with two other girls. An interviewer asked Boyer if he or Margaret had given it a thought. "Oh, yes," he said, "Miss Sullivan thought of it. She said that this time for her—the shoe was on the other foot, but I was still the heel!". . . . A hefty sort of lady floated across the Club 18 floor and dared clown Jack White to make fun of her. "Gwan," she dared him, "make a wisecrack and see what happens!" Vince Curran deflated her with: "Say, didn't you used to have 'Goodyear' printed on you?" It left her b-limp.

All-out Fight on U-Boats

By ADMIRAL YATES STIRLING

The so-called Battle of the Atlantic actually narrows down to an all-out fight against the U-boat, which because it can disappear completely under water, making retaliation difficult and costly, is much more of a menace against shipping than bombing planes or surface raiders.

Some reports say Germany has about 300 submarines in operations, but this is probably too high a figure. These include 800-tonners capable of operating long distances from home bases, but a large proportion of the total are of about 250 tons each.

It is probably the larger type that has been operating near Iceland, attacking United States destroyers. These U-boats have been taking a considerable toll of convoys, following them for several days to pick off victims.

BABY SUBS

The smaller U-boats can operate from German ports and the ports of conquered territory such as Bergen, Stavenger and Trondheim in Norway; Bruggee and Ostend in Belgium; Brest, St. Nazaire and Bordeaux in France. They can cover the English Channel, North Sea, and in the Atlantic to points from 200 to 300 miles west of Ireland, where British convoys funnel in to make ports in the British Isles.

Of the submarines of the small type, at least one-third can be at sea at all times. The 800-ton type can be most of the time on station, provided the submarine bases chosen by Germany have been provided with the facilities of repair and upkeep to these vessels.

We know that Britain is using large numbers of anti-submarine vessels in convoy, and that some submarines are being sunk, so that all is not plain sailing for the Germans in attacking convoys. But just what toll is being taken is an Admiralty secret. There is a reason for this. From the typical wreck of a submarine there are generally no survivors. The German personnel at home learns that such and such a submarine is missing. Many go out and never return, and this secrecy by the British is supposed to influence, adversely, the morale of the submarine service and cause the personnel to dread to leave port.

LOSS ESTIMATES

For the first eight months of the war the British gave out that 50 submarines had been sunk. Then no further reports of submarine sinkings were made. However, reports have leaked out from British personnel engaged in battles with the submarines that on one day recently three submarines were known to have been sunk by destroyers guarding a convoy in the Atlantic. Two were sunk by depth charges, and one was rammed. From two of the submarines there were no survivors, while from the third five officers and 30 men were taken prisoners. In this latter sinking an ace submarine captain, who had been credited with several hundred thousand tons of merchant ships sunk, was captured. Experienced submarine men like this one are valuable to Germany, and it is upon them that Germany counts to bolster the morale of her submarine crews. Their loss is a great blow to the German navy.

The Admiralty announced that up to May, 1941, 450 prisoners were taken from submarines. It is thus possible to piece together a fairly accurate estimate of the number of sunken submarines these prisoners represent. World War records show that no survivors were taken from about 70 per cent of submarines sunk.

Of the remaining 30 per cent the survivors averaged about 15 men per submarine.

INCREASE SINKINGS

Using this data, the 450 prisoners might represent 30 vessels. But these 30 vessels are only 30 per cent of a total sunk. Therefore, since the beginning of the war to last May, there may have been 100 German submarines destroyed.

When war broke out Germany was said to have had 120 submarines, with 180 building. Germany must have completed most of these 180 by this time. This does not mean, of course, that Germany has 300 submarines available. Taking all factors into consideration the actual number probably is between 150 and 200.

It is likely that five a month at least are being sunk, in which case the sinkings are about keeping up with the production of submarines.

The task of Britain on the sea is to make the sinkings greater than Germany's capability of producing submarines; only then can daylight be seen in the Battle of the Atlantic.

The bombing of submarine bases is not gaining a commensurate toll on submarines. The German submarine bases are provided with bomb-proof shelters for these valuable assets. Therefore, it would seem wiser for the R.A.F. bombing planes to extend their operations against submarines at sea and not waste bombs on sheltered submarines in port. Most of the sinkings have been done at sea, and that is where the greatest effort should be made.

HISTORIANS' LUCK

From Lynchburg (Va.) News

The feeling grows that the Duce is now washed up. In Rome, where the gladiators once bled and died, they are tossing Benito to the historians.

SANITY AND CENSORSHIP

From Collier's

The Navy Department took a deep breath the other day and ordained that names of British naval vessels repaired in American ports might thenceforth be published.

Previously, the whole city of Philadelphia was supposed to keep secret the fact that H.M.S. Resolute had put in at the Philadelphia Navy Yard for repairs; no more than 7,000,000 New Yorkers, because there are no more, knew that H.M.S. Malaya had arrived at the Brooklyn Navy Yard with a hole in her hull; the population of Newport News was supposed not to notice that the aircraft carrier Illustrious had been brought there for treatment.

It was a ridiculous situation, which kept no military secrets from the Nazis and was a vicious breeder of rumors and exaggerated gossip in this country.

To let the essentials of these news stories get into print, withholding only such details as might furnish leads to Germany's U-boat and long-range bomber dispatchers, is obviously commonsense. It should help British and American morale, and hurt German morale. In some cases it will help to refute the exaggerated sinking claims for which both the Germans and the Italians have long been notorious.

It's a pleasure to hand Secretary of the Navy Knox a pat on the back for this upsurge of commonsense; and to wish him many happy returns of the same.

Approximately one-fourth of the habitable land on earth is under British control.

Saskatchewan Prospering, Despite 'Little Kicks'

By ELMORE PHILPOTT

SASKATCHEWAN SCENE

SASKATOON — They are having the kind of weather here today that is the exact opposite of that we all hope Hitler is meeting in Russia. The sun is so clear and bright that the world's worst pessimist would have trouble in maintaining a grouch for very long. The whole of Saskatchewan seems covered with a fine filmy sheet of fleecy snow. It is as dainty and becoming as the powder on the schoolgirl's cheek at her first big dance.

I doze in the sun, and register bits of information while half asleep, by overhearing the conversation, and reading snatches from time to time.

Big item of talk is that there is a feed shortage looming—both oats and barley. The weather is responsible they say—as it prevented harvesting in many parts. The Gardiner subsidy on shipments of such to other parts of Canada no doubt was a factor too. Anyway the effect will be higher prices of meat next year, for many prairie farmers will find it unprofitable to winter their livestock.

WHAT PRICE SCHOOL TEACHING

The school teachers in this province are up in arms and appear to be fighting mad. It seems that the threatened shortage of teachers has resulted in the lowering of the bars. Instead of hiring fully qualified teachers some districts have engaged normal school students. The teachers' spokesman describes some of these as "Grade 12 failures, with six weeks' training, or less." The crux of the quarrel is the alleged attempt to peg teachers' salaries at $700 per year.

The background of this controversy goes back to the big drought of the thirties. On my last trip through here one inspector told me that many teachers had stuck with impoverished dried-out districts all through that terrible time. Many who got money wages actually received less than $500 per year. It is memory of these facts that makes the teachers' organization demand a fair wage now when the capacity to pay has been restored.

GARDINER VS. GARDINER

The meeting of the Saskatchewan Wheat Pool brought the charge from the visiting Manitoba president, William Parker, that the King government is undoing with one hand what it is trying to do with the other. He claims that the $4-per-acre subsidy for land kept in summer fallow has the effect of keeping farmers on land that can never be farmed economically.

General consensus of opinion seems to be that the fallow bonus was a good emergency move but that agriculture requires most of all a long-term policy—one point of which would be a soil survey.

With a manpower shortage looming now as a certainty it would seem to be that a start could be made even now in getting people off farms in districts where no plow should ever have been permitted.

PROSPERITY

In spite of little kicks it is as plain as a pikestaff that there is more real prosperity than there has been for many years. The vast expenditures on the air force and army camps which dot these prairies, and the allowances to the dependents of the thousands of prairie men in uniform, all this has sent purchasing power sweeping over the prairie like the benignant coming of a chinook wind.

Its effect is the more noticeable in contrast with the acute poverty in these parts in the worst of the thirties.

NOTE FOR GOVERNMENTS

My observation is that the ordinary people everywhere have carefully noted this lesson, and filed it away in their memories for future attention. The idea that when this war is over the people are going to permit any government to hold up its hands in helplessness, while millions go back on relief is, to put it mildly unrealistic.

The light has dawned on almost all the people that any country which really wants to do so can give its citizens employment in time of peace as well as in time of war. If it cannot do so under the price-and-profit system it can certainly do so under the national service set-up which now applies.

Never again will the mass of the people believe that there is no "money" for public employment, unless somebody like the Kaiser or Hitler attacks us.

CHANNEL ISLAND REFUGEE TAG DAY

The Victoria branch of the B.C. Channel Islanders' Society will hold a tag day Saturday, proceeds going to the headquarters of the Channel Islanders' Society in London to aid Channel Island refugees in England.

The special interest of the Victoria branch is to aid between 2,000 and 3,000 children of the islands who arrived in England last year with all their belongings in single suitcases.

Taggers for Saturday's tag day are urgently needed and those willing to assist are asked to phone Mrs. D. J. Mugford, G 4853.

Victoria officials say that donations of clothing and money have already been sent to England from Victoria and further contributions would be gratefully received. The Victoria branch was formed in August of this year, with Norman LeGallais as president, 11 months after the provincial organization came into being in September, 1940.

The society is active in assisting its unfortunate countrymen, forced out of the islands by the Nazis after they had conquered France. The Women's Auxiliary recently forwarded 140 pounds of new and used clothing to refugees in Britain.

The provincial society publishes a monthly bulletin describing its activities. It can be obtained by Channel Islanders living anywhere in B.C.

Nova Scotia Troops In Mock Battle

DEBERT CAMP, N.S. (CP)—In a great cavalcade 18 miles long, the 11th Infantry Brigade of Canada's 4th Division took to the highway Thursday, and with ancillary troops moved to a position of readiness for battle in an instructional exercise that provided one of the biggest troop movements ever staged in the Maritimes.

The mechanized column of approximately 4,000 men under Brig. A. M. Thomas, M.B., of Toronto, traveled 32 miles to its position in a long, thin line of vehicles, formed up in protected and camoflaged positions ready to jump off into battle, and then withdrew to this camp after a full day of manoeuvring.

Under the eye of Maj.-Gen. L. F. Page, D.S.O., general officer commanding the 4th Division, who ordered the scheme to further the training of his men, the troops simulated conditions of actual warfare. They wore full battle equipment, and they took action to combat air attack and other contingencies.

Airgraph Messages To Soldiers

First message to go from Canada to the United Kingdom under the airgraph message service of the Canadian Post Office Department is a message of greeting from Prime Minister Mackenzie King to Lt.-Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton.

"I have much pleasure in sending greetings and good wishes to you, and, through you to the officers and men of the Canadian corps," said the Prime Minister.

Airgraph messages, on forms available in post offices, are to be sent by train to Toronto, photographed there, and sent by air to Britain where each message will be reproduced, developed and forwarded to addresses.

Paddy Finucane Plans To Be Bookkeeper Again

LONDON (CP) — When the war is over, the ordered unexciting life of a bookkeeper will do for one of the R.A.F.'s top-notch fighter pilots—Flt. Lt. Brendan (Paddy) Finucane.

The 21-year-old Irishman, who already has been through enough excitement to last him a lifetime, revealed his unpretentious ambition in a broadcast.

He is credited with shooting down 23 enemy planes and holds the Distinguished Flying Cross and two bars and the Distinguished Service Order.

"I like jobs with figures—accountancy or auditing," Paddy explained. "Perhaps that doesn't sound much like a fighter pilot, but pilots are perfectly normal people."

He told of the excitement and nervous tension of air fighting.

"Before going off on a trip, I usually have a funny feeling in my 'tummy,' but once I'm in my aircraft everything is fine. The brain is working fast, and if the enemy is met it seems to work like a clockwork motor. You don't have time to feel anything.

"I have come back from a sweep to find my shirt and tunic wet through with perspiration. Our chaps sometimes find they can't sleep.

"You come back from a show and find it very hard to remember what happened. Maybe you have a clear impression of three or four incidents which stand out like illuminated lantern slides in the mind's eye.

"The reason is simply that everything happens so quickly in the air that you crowd a tremendous amount of thinking, action and emotion into a very short space of time, and you suffer afterward from mental indigestion."

Paddy told how a few days' leave works wonders for a tired pilot.

"The other week I was feeling a little jaded. Then my leave—seven days—came around. I came back bursting with energy.

"On my first flight after getting back I shot down three Me's in one engagement, and the next day bagged two more."

L.A.C. ROBERT HORSFIELD was killed on active service, according to a cable received by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Horsfield, Cobble Hill. Young Horsfield enlisted in the Royal Air Force in 1939 as a flight mechanic and rigger. During the past 15 months he has been attached to the Fleet Air Arm and served aboard an aircraft carrier. His parents formerly lived at Cadboro Bay.

LT.-COL. R. A. LONGRIDGE has been promoted from deputy assistant adjutant-general with the rank of major to assistant provost-marshal with the rank of lieutenant-colonel. Born at Cheshire, England, and educated in English public schools and Cambridge University, Lt.-Col. Longridge began his military career with the Voluntary Engineers in 1902. From 1905 to 1908 he served with the Cambridge Rifles and from 1908 to 1916 with the 16th Lancers Special Reserve. In 1916 he transferred to the A.P.M. (France) and served until 1917 when he joined the R.A.F. (Staff) in which he served until the end of the war.

SECOND LIEUTENANT G. HOPE, son of Mr. and Mrs. P. Hope, Graham Street, is now in eastern Canada completing his officers' training course. Former member of the Victoria United soccer team, basketball player for the Ramblers and former captain of the Saanich Thistles soccer team for two years, "Tony" also starred in track and field as a member of Coach Archie McKinnon's Flying "Y" track and field squad.

Wartime Kitchen Problems Solved

By PATRICIA CONNELLY

OTTAWA (CP) — Canadian mothers are advised to remember "shipping is your job and not the children's" in a pamphlet, "Food for Home Defence," just released by the consumer section of the of the Department of Agriculture.

The pamphlet, intended to help solve wartime kitchen problems of the Canadian housewife, warns "there is no shortcut to good nutrition — well-balanced meals are necessary." Hints on how to increase dollar-purchasing power include:

1. Read market reports in local newspapers.
2. Do not use products needed by Britain.
3. Watch for announcements of food-situation changes.
4. Buy foods which are plentiful and best value for money spent.
5. Watch for sales of staples, such as tomatoes, flour and soap.

Miss Laura Pepper, chief of the Agriculture Department's consumer section and marketing service, recommends use of the publication by all Canadians cooking and preparing meals. Copies are available for all who desire them.

"Buy Canadian" is the keynote of the pamphlet's opening section. It stresses Britain's need for ham and bacon, but lists numerous varieties of meats readily available to Canadians.

"We can use beef, lamb, veal, poultry and fish," the pamphlet reads, adding "liver, kidney, heart, tongue and tripe are very nutritious."

Urging housewives to include plenty of protective foods on the family table, the pamphlet outlines this pattern for daily meals: One pint of milk for each adult, one and a half pints to a quart for each child or the equivalent in buttermilk or evaporated milk as a beverage and in cooked foods.

"One serving of potatoes, one serving green vegetables or tomato juice, one serving other vegetables, two servings of fruit or fruit juice, two servings of whole grain bread or cereal, one serving of meat or fish, one egg or at least three or four a week; additional cereals, bread, sweets and fats to satisfy normal appetites."

Cathedral Bazaar Drew Many Patrons

Many patrons thronged the prettily-decorated stalls at the Memorial Hall gymnasium Thursday afternoon when the annual Missionary bazaar was held under the joint auspices of the Senior Evening Branch, the Business Woman's Branch and the Girls' Auxiliary of the Columbia W.A. The sum of $354.25 was realized.

In formally opening the fair, Very Rev. Spencer H. Elliott, Dean of Columbia, attested to the splendid work carried on by the sponsors and referred with regret to the loss occasioned to their ranks by the resignation of Miss Sill, through ill-health, and of Miss B. Mutlow, owing to her mother's continued ill-health. The Dean also spoke with sorrow of the recent death of Miss Joyce, a valued worker. Miss Sill's place will be taken by Miss Margaret Caldicott and Miss Mutlow's by Miss Joan Futcher and the Dean wished them every success in carrying on the work of their able predecessors. He reminded those present that the tragic state of the world made missionary work and the missionary spirit more necessary than ever.

Mrs. F. J. Laughlin was general convener and was assisted in welcoming the guests by Mrs. Spencer Elliott. Mrs. J. Limer and Mrs. W. G. Drew had charge of the teas, which were served at flower-centred tables. Miss M. R. Lawson being at the receipt of customs.

The stalls were in charge of the following: Fancy work, Mrs. W. F. Salsbury and Miss M. H. Jones (Senior Evening Branch), Mrs. C. W. Brooks and Mrs. Edwards (Business Woman's Branch); woolies, Miss M. Caldicott; novelties, Miss N. Sill; gifts and candies, Miss J. Futcher (Girls' Auxiliary); home cooking, Mrs. W. Leal and Miss L. Jones; plants, Mrs. W. J. Neal and Miss Fatt; superfluities, Miss D. Mott. Mrs. A. E. Relf and Mrs. J. Pilgrim managed the "Treasure Trail" and Mrs. D. St. Joseph's W.A. Bazaar Nets $900

Mrs. W. C. Woodward formally opened the autumn bazaar held in the nurses' home of St. Joseph's Hospital yesterday and in her graceful little speech expressed her sympathetic interest in hospital work and recalled pleasant associations with St. Paul's Hospital in Vancouver.

Arranged by the Ladies' Auxiliary and under the convenership of its president, Mrs. Llewellyn Jones, who welcomed the visitors, the affair was an outstanding success, more than $900 being realized. Mrs. Woodward, after patronizing all the attractively-decorated stalls, had tea with the Sisters.

Mrs. E. Hornsby was convener of the tea, and the centre table was covered with a cutwork cloth and centred by an artistic arrangement of red carnations and white chrysanthemums, the hospital colors, and the smaller tables were decorated with small vases of the same flowers. Mrs. R. W. Mayhew, Mrs. E. W. Hetherington, Miss Kathleen Agnew and Mrs. Gerald Rose presided at the tea urns.

In charge of the dolls' stall and fish pond were Mrs. Alex McDermott, Mrs. John Hart, Mrs. F. M. Bryant and Mrs. F. W. Gill; Mrs. T. McLaughlin and Mrs. G. Brady managed the apron still; Mrs. Anthony Creet, Mrs. N. Regan, Mrs. I. B. Dixon and Mrs. T. Harris, fancywork; Mrs. Frank Doherty, Mrs. J. Watson and Mrs. May O'Connell, home cooking; Mrs. F. J. Housewives' League Holds Convention

VANCOUVER (CP)—Mrs. F. J. Rolston, M.P.P-Elect for Vancouver-Point Grey, in an address to the opening session of the British Columbia Housewives' League's annual convention here Thursday, declared women in wartime have an important role in guarding of their families' health

"A man may be head of the house but it has been women's work always to make $1 go as far as $2 in the feeding and clothing of her family," she said.

Representatives from all parts of Vancouver Island and the lower mainland registered for the opening session. The convention will continue tonight and Friday.

Mrs. Rolston urged the league to investigate food prices and do all in their power to keep the cost down and the quality up.

"Canadians today are suffering from malnutrition," she said. "It is up to you to investigate this and study the nutrition of our children."

Mrs. D. Hartley, in her presidential report, said the league had made valuable contributions to the welfare of the community. The British Columbia coast marketing board was being investigated, she said; a meat conference had been held to study prices in August; a campaign has been launched for universal franchise in municipal elections, and the league has worked to bring farmers and consumers together for better understanding and mutual benefit.

O CANADA

At the Remembrance Day ceremony at the Parliament Buildings on Tuesday last the song O Canada was included in the program. Unfortunately there are several versions of this song but in all our city schools, the meetings of the Canadian Club and service clubs and most public gatherings the Weir version is used. On Tuesday last another version was introduced which very few of us knew. It appears to me that unless we in Victoria do, on all occasions, use the same version of this song, it would be better to discontinue the use of it entirely and substitute therefor the beautiful song "The Maple Leaf."

KENNETH FERGUSON.

STORM IN A BEER GLASS

A terrible accusation has been made that soldiers were given a glass of beer, and that the cost came out of city funds.

Out of the confusion of charge and denial it is difficult to ascertain whether this awful charge be true or untrue. All one can gather is that a letter of protest has been submitted by the United Church Sunday School teachers, and aldermen appear to be rapidly beating for cover.

This is truly awful, because what poor soldier can be expected to stand a glass of beer? Perhaps it would be better to say survive the effects of, rather than stand a glass of beer, because even Scotsmen, in unguarded moments, have been known to do the latter.

All a soldier can be expected to do, apparently, is to drink milk and water, be man enough to train, fight and perhaps die for his country, in order to preserve the freedom and lives of civilians, including Sunday School teachers and aldermen.

For God's sake, let us cease to be hypocrites. Let us realize that our splendid soldiers are he-men, and if they enjoy a glass of beer, let them have it without this sanctimonious humbug. We take it that the entertainment committee did not force those soldiers who were teetotalers to drink beer. Aldermen have been known to spend civic funds on far less worthy objects, and here's good luck to both the soldiers and the entertainment committee, if the latter did buy the soldiers a drink.

Reading of such trivial caviling, it is not difficult to understand why there is some hesitation on the part of many eligible men in coming forward as recruits.

Market Wise in Record Race Win

BALTIMORE (AP) — Market Wise, a bargain buy that developed into one of the better three-year-olds, ended his 1941 campaign in brilliant fashion Thursday by racing to a record-breaking victory in the 29th running of the $10,000 added Governor Bowie Handicap on Pimlico's closing card.

Market Wise was guided over the mile and five-eighths by Wendell Eads in the time of 2 minutes 43 1-5 seconds to set a new track mark. This clipped a second and a fifth off the former record made by Kayak II in 1939.

Market Wise, carrying top weight of 124 pounds, closed fast to defeat Col. E. R. Bradley's Best Seller by two lengths. G. H. Bostwick's Nellie Bly was another two lengths back in third place.

The favorite at $4.60 for $2, Market Wise picked up $9,750 to increase his 1941 earnings to $97,715, a good return for the $3,000 which owner Lou Tufano, Jamaica, L.I., contractor, paid for him and another horse.

Boost Ante for Pro Golf Event

CHICAGO (AP)—The Professional Golfers' Association of America Thursday increased the prize money for its annual championship tournament from $6,000 to $14,200 and approved a deduction of 5 per cent of its purses to cover the expense of operating the tournament bureau.

The prize money increase will raise the winner's share from $1,100 to $5,000, the runner-up share from $600 to $2,000, with the losers in the semifinal round getting $1,000 each. Quarterfinal losers will receive $500 apiece.

It also was voted to reduce the number of qualifiers for the title tournament from 64 to 32, but to retain the two-day qualifying round. Match play will be at 36 holes through the event where formerly the longer battles started with the quarterfinals. Nonqualifiers for match play will still get mileage to and from the tournament.

Jimmy Hines, veteran star from Lakeville, N.Y., was named tournament chairman.

Racing Suspensions

CHICAGO (AP)—The Illinois Racing Board Wednesday indefinitely suspended jockey Robert Merritt, Brad Brodsky, a Philadelphia horse owner, and his trainer, Harry Baker, for "practices detrimental to the best interests of racing."

All three had appeared at the board's hearing into a "ringer" case in which Hasty Motion, racing under the name of Rapid Bone, won at Hawthorne, September 23, under the ownership of R. V. C. Van Cleve.

Van Cleve of Abilene, Tex., and several others alleged to have been connected with the "ringer" case, were ruled off the turf for life by the board two weeks ago.

CLAIM DISCUS RECORD

TURKIN (AP)—The Gazette Del Popolo said Thursday a new world record for the discus throw would be claimed by Adolfo Consolini, young Italian peasant who hurled the discus 53.34 metres (175 feet) at Milan October 26.

This was eight centimetres (3¼ inches) further than the American star, Archie Harris of Indiana University, accomplished last summer, when he sailed the platter 174 feet 8¾ inches at Palo Alto, Calif.

$3,320 DAILY DOUBLE

BALTIMORE (AP)—A daily double worth $3,320.40 for $2—largest of the fall racing season in Maryland and third largest registered in the state—was recorded at Pimlico Wednesday.

Six tickets were sold on the winning combination of Early Spring in the first race and Javert in the second. Early Spring paid $55.60 for $2 and Javert $82.90 for $2.

"Any Amount however small is worth while"

BOY: "Gee, dad, look at this. I got my first pay today!"

FATHER: "Well, well, that's great. Son, you'll be earning money regularly from now on. I want you to get the habit of saving a part, each payday It's easy to learn, when you're young."

BOY: "But Gosh, dad, I'm not making much to start."

FATHER: "That makes no difference. Any amount, however small, is worthwhile. That's ALWAYS good advice, but right now, it's doubly valuable."

BOY: "Why's that?"

FATHER: "Because we've got to win this war. And that means we've got to have guns, ships, planes, and tanks—more and more of them."

BOY: "But what's that got to do with my saving?"

FATHER: "A great deal. Put your money into War Savings Certificates, to keep our soldiers, sailors, and airmen supplied with all the things they need. In that way you'll be doing your bit for Canada, and making money at the same time. For each four dollars you invest will be worth $5 in seven and one-half years."

The help of every Canadian is needed for Victory. In these days of war the thoughtless, selfish spender is a traitor to our war effort. A reduction in personal spending is now a vital necessity to relieve the pressure for goods, to enable more and more labour and materials to be diverted to winning the war. The all-out effort, which Canada must make, demands this self-denial of each of us.

Report On England

People Still Ignorant Of Price of Victory

By B. K. SANDWELL

Editor, Toronto Saturday Night, just returned from England as member of party of Canadian editors on tour overseas.

First; it appeared to us that the British people are confident, and so far as we could tell justifiably so, that Germany cannot defeat them in the present struggle, and this without regard to what may take place in any other part of Germany's front. Great Britain can repel any attempt at invasion; and can endure any possible severity of bombing and blockade, with no more than the present amount of U.S. and Empire assistance, and can maintain its fighting power and even increase it.

Further, the British are prepared to endure blockade and bombing—the severity of each of which is not likely to exceed or even to equal the maximum which it attained during the past two years—for a very considerable time, if there is a reasonable prospect of defeating Germany at the end of that time. But the extent of British endurance is very closely conditioned by the amount of hope which can be entertained of substantial American co-operation, not merely in preventing Germany from defeating Britain, but in actually defeating Germany itself.

INVASION ULTIMATELY

For, second; it appeared to us—and in this we were all profoundly influenced by our very remarkable interview with the commander-in-chief of the Canadian forces overseas—that the only possible means of defeating Germany is by means of an invasion of German territory. Anything short of that will be either a victory for Germany or a drawn war, with no possible sequel but a renewal of the struggle at Germany's time and in Germany's way. And the people of Great Britain cannot be expected to take up for a third time the heavy task of standing in the forefront of civilization's battle against barbarism.

At the present time the masses of the British people, and for that matter their leaders also, are not effectively convinced that successful invasion of Germany is the sole means to victory. They continue, many of them, to comfort themselves with the hope that the conquered peoples will rise and throw off the German yoke, and that the Germans themselves will tire of their tremendous efforts and demand peace. They are not facing the vital truth that unless these things are associated with an effective invasion of Germany they will not bring victory but only a truce.

The best military opinion holds the invasion view. Mr. Churchill almost undoubtedly holds it. But there is great reluctance among politicians about expressing it, and about allowing it to be expressed by British military men, because of the dislike of the Americans (at present) for the idea of participating in military operations in continental Europe.

MORE MANPOWER ESSENTIAL

For, third; it appeared to us that an effective invasion of Germany would involve a greater amount of manpower than Great Britain could be expected to provide, even with a much greater amount of assistance from the Dominions than is at present being delivered. In other words, a substantial American expeditionary force is necessary to a satisfactory ending of the war. Without it, the war can be called off, but it cannot be won by the opponents of German world-hegemony. And if it is merely called off, it will be called on again when Germany wants it called on. For in the language of the Americans themselves, this is a conflict between a nation to which war is always and absolutely the final instrument of national policy, and a group of nations to which it is no more than the reluctantly employed instrument of national self-preservation.

The time for this invasion of Germany is not yet near. There is much to be done before it is even planned. It is an entirely different matter from a raid, which can be abandoned without serious adverse consequences, and which can have no very serious favorable consequences even if it succeeds. It means the committing of a very large army to an enterprise from which, if it fails, it can hardly be extricated without terrible losses. But it means, if it succeeds, the enduring conquest of Germany, the smashing of the Prussian hegemony, the ending of the Prussian idea that a Germany led by Prussia can make itself master of the world.

And fourth; it appeared to us that the British people, in looking forward to the defeat of Germany and accepting the terrible sacrifices which even the most complacent of them know to be inevitable if that end is to be achieved, are entirely free from any selfish motive. They are not seeking a British victory; they are seeking the victory of the peaceful and nonaggressive and faith-keeping nations. They are reconciled to the prospect that in that victory the power and prestige of their own nation may be somewhat diminished, and that of the United States notably increased.

The masses of the British people—this is not so true of the governing classes, but they are not governing quite so securely as they were—are even reconciled to the possibility that in the victory of the peaceful nations the power and prestige of Russia itself may be notably increased. Few things happening in England during our stay impressed me more than the vehemence with which the people of the intensely respectable and bourgeois London borough of Hampstead repudiated an unwise expression to which their mayor committed himself on the borough notepaper, to the effect that it would be a good thing if the Russians and Germans exterminated one another. The idea of Germany as a useful bulwark against Communism is practically dead in Great Britain; it would not be revived even if there were a movement for a negotiated peace, for the impetus to such a movement would proceed solely from unutterable weariness of war, and not from any trust in Germany.

NEGOTIATED PEACE POSSIBLE

And fifth and finally; there could be a movement for a negotiated peace in Great Britain, at any moment after the nation should cease to entertain a confident hope of victory. The psychological strain of the conflict is very severe. The British people have endured what no other nation except Russia has endured without breaking; but it has endured what other nations would not because it believed in ultimate victory, not because it hoped merely for a stalemate. Take away the hope of victory, and the British—rightly, as I believe—would not much care whether they were stalemated or flatly defeated. Rightly, I say, because after a stalemate it would not again be within their power to organize for a new resistance. If the world still needs saving from Pan-Germanism after this war, the job will have to be done somewhere else, in another hemisphere, by less exhausted peoples.

The British do not yet, all of them, fully realize the price of victory over Germany. Many still think it can be procured by internal collapse and the revolt of the conquered. These things will ultimately help towards victory, but they will never create it. It is important that as the British come more and more to realize that the price of victory is higher than they thought, they should still be enabled to feel that victory can nevertheless be bought—that there are enough free nations with enough men and resources to pay whatever price is demanded.

STRAIN ON PEOPLE TELLING

I have said that the psychological strain of the conflict is very severe upon the British. This is an understatement. People in North America have heard so much about the wonderful way in which the British are standing it, that they are coming to the quite erroneous conclusion that they cannot be having much to stand.

The truth is that being bombed is a frightful experience through which at least half the population of England has passed, not once but many times, and that it does not become much less frightful by repetition. The ordinary channels of social life are almost completely dammed up by the blackout and the shortage of gasoline; there is no entertaining and next to no public amusements in the evening; and the depressing effect of this condition is becoming so obvious that some newspapers and politicians are seriously arguing that the blackout does more harm than good.

There is vastly more compulsion than the average North American has any idea of; for example, people who have once volunteered for stretcher-bearer work or other forms of defence or rescue service find themselves in the police court if they fail to turn up for duty and are not permitted to "resign" no matter what the cause.

Family life is disrupted on an enormous scale by the compulsory and near-compulsory services. The rationed diet, for the poor who must work hard and cannot supplement it by restaurant meals, is slightly less than adequate, and the clothing allowance, again for the poor who cannot afford the more durable fabrics, is pitiful. There is amazingly little complaint, but not because there is little to complain of. The British are suffering deeply, but they are suffering gladly because they are convinced they are suffering in a great and noble cause.

Aussies to Fight As Army Corps

Gen. Sir Thomas Blamey, commander of the Australian Imperial Forces in the Middle East, has announced Australia's Middle Eastern Army will fight in future as a self-contained army corps.

He said there is justification for optimism in the Middle East war theatre.

The new self-contained army corps will absorb the separate Australian Imperial Force Divisions which already have seen action in major campaigns of this war.

Summer is the longest of the four seasons; winter the shortest.

Los Angeles Area Shaken

Quake in California

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A violent earthquake, the most severe in eight years, toppled bricks and cornices from buildings in suburban Los Angeles, sent guests fleeing from one damaged hotel, split a 55,000-gallon oil tank and damaged gas and power lines early today.

Guests fled the 30-room Hotel Torrance in suburban Torrance as the temblor showered bricks from the two-story structure into the street. Fire inspectors condemned the building and ordered the guests—their number was not available—to find lodgings elsewhere. They said a few other buildings would be condemned today and ordered torn down.

The quake occurred at 12.42 a.m. P.S.T. and lasted from a few seconds to 18 or 20 in Torrance, Gardena and Long Beach, the hardest hit areas.

Two small machine shops tooling instruments for aircraft and other southern California defence industries were so badly damaged that Torrance firemen said it might be several days before work there could be resumed.

One wall of the Torrance theatre collapsed, but patrons and employees had been gone some time. Bricks and plate glass from half a dozen damaged buildings littered the streets.

Citizens of Oakville Cheer Christening of Corvette H.M.C.S. Oakville

Riding the corvette Oakville on its way from Toronto to Oakville, Ont., for the christening ceremony were 12 school students chosen by their fellow students. After landing they made the presentation of gifts to the officers and crew. Rear-Admiral P. W. Nelles and Hon. Angus L. Macdonald are shown (left) with some of the students. Gene Delaney of Oakville high school (right), made the presentation of the handsome silk ensign. She is being shown some of the comforts of life afloat by members of the crew. Presentations included radios, ship's bell, ship's clock, windbreakers, knitted goods done by the women of the district, books, percolators and electric heating plates.

WOMEN ARE NOW EMPLOYED AS METEOROLOGISTS AT R.A.F. STATIONS to obtain the data on which weather forecasts are based. Training is given after enrolment in the W.A.A.F. in the plotting of weather maps, reading of many types of instruments and special apparatus to measure the velocity of upper winds. Here is a W.A.A.F. meteorologist handing a weather report to a pilot before he starts on an operational flight. She is explaining doubtful points shown in the forecast.

New Zealand Fliers Produce Maori War Dance

Spectators at a wings parade at No. 6 Service Flying Training School, R.C.A.F., at Dunnville, Ont., recently got a surprise when the pilots suddenly broke into a Maori war dance. With the commanding officer's permission, they were expressing themselves as young New Zealanders do at big celebrations. Some of the graduates, all New Zealanders, are seen in action here. They call their dance the Haki, and it went on for several minutes. This is part of the unbreakable fighting spirit of free people that spells doom to the doctrine-bound Nazis.

Sergeant-Pilot G. D. Robertson of Toronto, son of Dr. D. E. Robertson of Moose River mine fame, is one of the R.C.A.F. men cited for special mention in the Canadian Air Ministry's first official communique. Robertson was one of a fighter squadron which downed three Nazis in a combined bomber-fighter sweep over France. He is officially credited with one of them. This picture, which he sent to his parents, shows Robertson, in his plane, being congratulated by Sergt. "Butch" Handley of North Bay. The swastika represents his first air triumph.

THE NEW GIANT STIRLING BOMBER, a type of which was used in recent raids on Germany, can carry 2,000-pound bombs. The Nazis felt the terror of this plane when R.A.F. raiders dropped low out of a story sky in one of the greatest mass attacks yet made by the British on the enemy. Here bombs are snaked in under the nose of the Stirling bomber which can carry three to nine times as heavy a bomb load as other British planes.

The trooping of the color at the Queen's Own Regiment's celebration of the anniversary of its founding is watched somewhere in England by high Canadian officers. In the picture at left are (from left): Lieut.-Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton, commander of the Canadian Corps; a brigadier (at back); Lieut.-Gen. Sir Ian Hamilton, colonel-in-chief of the unit; Maj.-Gen. G. R. Pearkes, commander of the First Canadian Division; Maj.-Gen. V. W. Odlum, commander of the Second Division; Maj.-Gen. the Hon. P. J. Montague, senior officer, C.M.H.Q., and Maj.-Gen. C. B. Price, commander of the Third Division.

THIS PICTURE COMES FROM TOBRUK, where a desert-toughened force of Australian, British and Indian troops is making one of history's heroic stands against siege. Surrounded by superior numbers, dive-bombed day after day for months, the men of Tobruk more than hold their own. Their guns crack continuously at the Stukas, their tanks and night-raiding parties make life more miserable for the besiegers than themselves. The Nazi plane on which this Aussie chalks his "V" was brought down by tank gunner.

ADELAIDE WHITEHOUSE, assistant director of volunteer services of the American Red Cross, pins a button on President Roosevelt. She has just enrolled him in the organization's annual membership roll call at the White House. She's wearing the Red Cross volunteer uniform.

THE SIEGE OF TOBRUK IS OVER for this happy warrior, and Gunner George Jenkins of Portsmouth gives the well-known "thumbs up" signal as he heads for London from his barracks in England. The men of Tobruk, beleaguered British stronghold in Africa, have been hailed in London for their heroism. George's buddies back in Africa are still holding on.

THEY AREN'T CUSHIONED, these tanks of a British regiment deploying into line as they plunge over a ridge at high speed. It takes a tough Tommy to enjoy this sort of transportation—but the tank corps has a waiting list.

VISIT TO THE opening skating season of the new Willows Arena Wednesday night certainly revived memories. Granted the majority of the crowd were young folk but we noticed among the 800-odd patrons many faces familiar at the old rink 12 years ago. We chatted with people who had really rescued their blades from the junk box. As one girl remarked: "They're a little rusty but still work well."

Louis Glazan, former local amateur hockey player and skating enthusiast, took a lot of ribbing when he pitched in and helped take tickets at the door. "Looks like I've finally got myself a job but that's okay by me as I'm sure tickled to see some of old skating gang again," said Louis with a big grin. Another familar face was Freddy Young, one of Patrick's best patrons at the former rink.

Then standing in the lobby looking the crowd over was Alderman Archie Wills. He was one of the few present, if not the only one, who attended the opening of the old rink back in 1912. Although he didn't get on the ice for the first session Archie had his skates in the car just in case. "Yes, and they're the same pair I had with me 29 years ago," he remarked.

"And this only a portion of the skating crowd in Victoria," Wills continued. "Just think of the many people who stayed away tonight because they knew it would be too crowded to allow for comfortable skating. Take a look at the crowd. It is mostly young people who just had to get on the ice for the first session. There is still all those older skating enthusiasts who will make their appearance at the Arena after things get settled, to draw from."

Most pleased person at the Arena was Barney Olson, the man who made the new skating palace possible. "I figured on a big crowd tonight but my estimate was a wee bit short," he said with a big grin. "Accommodations for so many have been difficult tonight but the public have been swell and I guarantee they will be well looked after once the rink gets into full swing and settles down for the winter session.

Before the opening of the night skating period we wandered into the dressing-room of the Victoria Bapcos' hockey team. The boys were just getting out of their strips after an hour's workout, the first good session they had had on the ice. You couldn't find a more enthusiastic gang. They are just aching to get started and were doing just a little grumbling about not enough practice time. But they realize the problem the Arena has to meet and are willing to make the best of it. Although the Victoria players have been imported from all parts of Canada they are just like one big family. From what we have seen of the boys the Victoria club will certainly not suffer from lack of team spirit. They are determined to make the return of hockey to this city a bang-up success and want to put their squad over with the fans. We know they will. They're good hockey players.

Oak Bay Squad Meets Saanich

Dripping skies and soggy grounds will favor the Blue Devils in their battle Saturday at 2.30 at Macdonald Park with the Warriors, Saanich's entry in the Victoria Canadian Rugby Football League.

Supporters of both smart grid machines, who thrilled to Tuesday's game and saw the Oak Bay squad roll over Saanich 18 to 13, are high in their praise of their respective teams.

They agree on one point alone, however, "Saturday's game will be a classic."

Coach Roy McKay says his Blue Devils don't have to worry about the weather. However, it is conceded generally that his boys are greater threats on a muddy field where weight in the line and heavy bucking plays are valuable.

Despite their defeat Tuesday, the eager Warriors are confident their sustained driving power will upset the Big Blues. They learned much from their defeat and have been improving line plays and developing their ball-handling.

A second straight win for the Devils will put them in a two-way tie for first place with V.H.S. Alumni, while a victory for the Warriors will boost the Saanich squad into second place along with Oak Bay.

United Travels To Vancouver

With three games played and three wins tucked away, Victoria United soccer team makes its first trip of the season out of town to play North Shore at Vancouver's Con Jones Park, Saturday.

This will be the game to really test United's strength, because at present the Shore team heads the circuit. The Victoria eleven will be at full strength.

In the local set-up the league-leading Victoria West team will travel to Duncan to play their next game. At the metropolis of the Cowichan area they will meet Duncan Native Sons, newest entry in the league. The Duncan team held Esquimalt to a 4 to 4 draw last Sunday, but in view of their decisive win over V.M.D. last week, the Wests will be odds-on favorites. Esquimalt and V.M.D. will battle in the city at 2.30 in the other league match. Grounds are yet to be named. Kick-off is set for 2.30.

Plans are now in formation for a series of exhibition matches between Victoria United and a picked team from the Sunday league. Proceeds would go to swell the Injured Players' Fund.

Four juvenile matches will be played this week-end. The draw follows:

Saturday, Fourth Division—

10.30—Gorge Rovers vs. Royals, Victoria West Park; referee, T. Kirchin. This game was previously scheduled for Hampton Road.

10.30—Maple Leafs vs. V's, Royal Athletic Park; referee, P. J. Woodley.

Sunday, Second Division—

2.30—Victoria West vs. Gorge Aces, Victoria West; referee, ...

First Division, 2.30—Shamrocks vs. St. Louis College; referee, Holness. Grounds to be arranged.

Schriner in Smart Return With 2 Goals

If all returning cripples perform like Dave Schriner, then coach Happy Day of Toronto Maple Leafs can relax a bit while waiting for Don and Nick Metz to rejoin the team.

Schriner, fractured toe in a cast and wearing oversize skates, returned to the National Hockey League wars last night in Toronto and led the Leafs to a 4 to 2 victory over Montreal Canadiens. Schriner scored two goals. The casualty list mounted, however, when Don Metz suffered a fractured right ankle and joined brother Nick on the sidelines. Nick has a trick knee.

Meanwhile, in New York's Madison Square Garden, Chicago Black Hawks showed no regard for the team that adopted Brooklyn, beating the former New York Americans 2 to 1. A 60-piece Brooklyn band and a crowd of nearly 11,500 made plenty of noise as an aggressive Amerk team kept excitement at a high pitch in Gotham's seasonal opener.

The scoring performance of Schriner, who received his injury in the first game of the season in Toronto against New York Rangers, was duplicated by Terry Reardon, Boston forward on loan to Canadiens, who scored both Montreal counters.

Schriner had just nicely entered the game in the opening period when he grabbed the puck and went in close to beat Bert Gardiner. His second goal was the final of the night, and came with less than two minutes of play remaining when he took a long pass from Billy Taylor, stick-handled past Gardiner and shot the puck into an empty cage.

Reardon tied the score 1 to 1 in the first period on a sideshot that caromed past Turk Broda off Bob Davidson's legs. His second goal tied the score again in the second period after Lorne Carr, former New York American winger, counted his first tally as a Leaf. Gordie Drillon, on one of his typical goalmouth tallies, put the Leafs ahead 3 to 2 after seven minutes of the middle frame.

At Manhattan, the Hawks won through two fast-scoring plays in the second period after Harry Watson had given Red Dutton's Brooklyns a one-goal lead in the opening session. For Watson, who came up to Amerks this season through Saskatoon Quakers, it was his first goal as a professional.

On the contrary, it was seasoned veterans who scored for Chicago. Bill Thoms snared the first while Buzz Boll was serving a penalty. Mush March, the league's oldest player in point of service, scored the deciding counter with Doug Bentley and Thoms awarded assists.

The Brooklyns received a setback when Wilf Field, their most experienced defenceman, suffered a gash on the eye and was taken to hospital.

Vancouver Boxing Squabble

Fight Turned Down

VANCOUVER (CP) — Jack Henderson, secretary of the British Columbia Boxing Commission, announced Thursday that an application for a bout between Kenny Lindsay, Vancouver bantamweight, and Rustico Orquita, Hollywood, Calif., slated to be held here Tuesday night, has been refused by the commission here.

Henderson explained that the professional fight would conflict with next week's amateur Golden Gloves tournament.

"We received an application only today, which was the first official indication we had that Sid Beech and Arnold Bertram wanted to promote the Lindsay-Orquita fight on that night," said Henderson. "These things are supposed to be in our hands at least two weeks before the fight."

When Bertram, Lindsay's manager, heard the news he said "I'll never let Kenny fight in Vancouver again. They (the boxing commission) are a bunch of yokels."

Bertram explained that promoter Beech, who made a special trip to Seattle to bring back boxers from H.M.S. Warspite for his card and could not be reached for comment, was so busy before leaving he forgot to sign the application.

OAK BAY GOLF

Hanson Will Be Out With Bombers

WINNIPEG (CP) — Winnipeg Blue Bombers' stock rose today when it was learned Fritzie Hanson, fleet halfback, will be ready for the crucial battle against Regina Roughriders Saturday for the western Canada football championship.

Hanson participated in a lengthy workout at Osborne Stadium Wednesday night and experts predict he will be ready to travel at old-time form in the pay-off game. The best-of-three series was deadlocked here Tuesday when Bombers defeated Roughriders 18 to 12. Regina took the first encounter at Regina, November 8, by an 8 to 6 score.

Middle wing Cliff Roseborough, a veteran of Bombers' line, suffered a sprained wrist in Tuesday's game instead of a fracture as was feared at first. Another lineman, Benny Hatskin, who left the last game with a knee injury, showed improvement. Both players announced they will be ready for duty Saturday.

Art Stevenson, ace halfback, and middle wing Herb Peschel, will both miss the final game. Stevenson was lost to Bombers because of a chipped bone in his knee suffered in the November 8 game, and Peschel has been out most of the season with a shoulder injury which was aggravated Tuesday.

Scores Hole in One

While playing over the Oak Bay links of the Victoria Golf Club this week Mrs. Walter Parry scored a hole-in-one on the 118-yard eighth hole. She used a No. 2 iron for the perfect shot. Mrs. Parry was playing in a foursome with her husband, Walter Parry, L.S.V. York and C. Y. Stanier.

Navy Gets Proceeds

Louis Fights Baer

NEW YORK (AP) — Joe Louis will defend his heavyweight boxing title against Buddy Baer in a 15-round scrap at Madison Square Garden here, January 9, with the proceeds to go to navy relief.

Rear - Admiral Adolphus Andrews, commandant of the third naval district, announced Wednesday night that promoter Mike Jacobs of New York arranged the championship fight.

Andrews said Louis would receive only his expenses in turn for risking his title, which he defended successfully against Buddy in a previous fight.

The bout will be for the benefit of the New York auxiliary of the Naval Relief Society, of which Admiral Andrews is president. All profits will be given to the navy relief to provide for emergency situations encountered by officers and enlisted men of the United States navy and their families.

The New York office of promoter Jacobs made no comment on the fight, except to confirm the navy's announcement.

Louis defended his crown for the 19th time when he knocked out Lou Nova in six rounds here late in September.

It took the champion the same number of rounds to dispose of Buddy in their meeting last spring.

Earlier Wednesday, the bulky brother of former champion Max Baer predicted in Sacramento, Calif., that he would win the title the next time he met Louis. Baer said he plans to wade in and match the champion blow for blow.

Buddy weighs 224, just 10 pounds over his fighting weight. He will train at Lakewood, N.J., for five weeks.

Gus Lesnevich Defends Title

NEW YORK (AP)—The appetites of fighters being what they are, Gus Lesnevich of Cliffside, N.J., and Tami Mauriello of the Bronx are due to fight 15 rounds at Madison Square Garden tonight for the title that neither is likely to defend again.

Gus and Tami are two important members of a group of fighters who are trying to eat their way up into the heavyweight division and big money. Tonight they will fight for the light-heavyweight crown which Lesnevich now holds.

Lesnevich just did manage to get down to the required 175-poundage last August when he won undisputed title recognition by beating the Fordham flat flinger in a scrap that left plenty of arguments as to who won. He was up around 185 pounds when he started training for this brawl and one reason why Mauriello has been made a 15 to 10 favorite is that a good many fight followers think Gus probably has left his fight in the gym along with those extra pounds. Tami, a middleweight contender last spring, had grown up to 180 pounds a few weeks ago.

Chest Clinic Set Wednesday

The Victoria Community Chest executive, planning to present as nearly complete a report as possible on its current drive, will hold a meeting in the Empress Hotel Wednesday evening at 8 to hear suggestions and criticisms from workers.

The session will take the form of a clinic at which proposals will be discussed for the 1942 campaign. All majors and captains and any others who wish to attend will be present. If any have particular suggestions to make but cannot attend the gathering, they will be asked to submit them in writing.

At a meeting of the executive today statements were made to the effect the committee hoped to be able to announce the drive had gone over the top by the time the general gathering was held. In an effort to ensure that statement, requests were issued to workers to bring in their returns and make their wind-up calls without delay.

Test Double Appeal In Anderson Case

Mr. Justice H. B. Robertson, in Supreme Court Chambers today, reserved judgment on a motion by C. L. Harrison, for the crown, seeking dismissal of Neil Anderson's application for a writ of mandamus against County Court Judge J. N. Ellis' dismissal of her appeal.

Mr. Harrison declared counsel for Mrs. Anderson had already filed notice of appeal to the Court of Appeal on the question and contended a jurisdictional conflict was created thereby in so far as judgment had not been rendered by Mr. Justice Robertson on the mandamus application.

Convicted in city police court on a charge of having liquor for sale, Mrs. Anderson appealed through Joseph McKenna to County Court. The appeal was dismissed on the technical grounds improper service had been made. To overcome that Mr. McKenna made application to Mr. Justice Robertson and then filed notice of appeal to the higher court prior to delivery of judgment.

Members and friends of Premier Orange Lodge No. 1610 were entertained in the Orange Hall Monday by a musical program arranged by J. W. Buckler. The president and secretary, Norman Dent and A. V. Here With 'Iron Duke'

Air Raids Nothing New To Canteen Hostesses

Veteran of England's worst air raids, including the devastating blitz of last December, Mrs. Lionel Gibbs arrived in Victoria Thursday with the bomb-scarred mobile canteen Iron Duke.

The canteen is on the last leg of a transcontinental tour which has contacted thousands of Canadians in over 40 cities in Ontario and western Canada.

Mrs. Gibbs was accompanied by Hon. Mrs. Robin Gurdon.

The purpose of the trip, which was begun last May, is to advertise the Queen's Canadian Fund for Air Raid Victims.

Donations were sent to the local office in each city where the canteen was shown so that every centre was credited with the amount it collected.

Gifts of clothes sent by Canadians to those left destitute when Nazi bombs shattered their homes were an unbelievable source of comfort, said Mrs. Gibbs. The beautiful quality and quantity of goods was amazing, but additional supplies of good warm clothing were still sorely needed, Mrs. Gibbs added. She appealed to Canadians to continue generous donations.

BROTHER LOST ARM

The two hostesses, both young and engaging, crossed the Atlantic to see their children, who were evacuated to schools and homes in eastern United States at the beginning of the war.

Mrs. Gurdon's husband is serving in Egypt with the Coldstream Guards. Her brother, Lord Cowdry, attached to the Sussex Yeomanry, was wounded fighting in Flanders before France fell. With his arm amputated he lay for two days on the beach at Dunkerque and after reaching England it was four days before the wound was dressed. Today he's hale and hearty, Mrs. Gurdon reports, and is parliamentary private secretary to the Under-secretary for Air.

Mrs. Gurdon and Mrs. Gibbs have had terrifying experiences in air raids.

"The worst raid I was in," said Mrs. Gibbs, "was on my way to Canada. When the train was leaving for the coast the station was bombed, fragments flying everywhere. We were under fire the whole trip, and when we reached our hotel to wait for the boat, bombs fell all around us, completely gutting the buildings across the street, and shattering all the windows of our hotel."

Mrs. Gibbs was billeting officer in her village near Winchester, as well as working for the Women's Volunteer Service, the Red Cross and doubling for duty in V.A.D. work at secondary hospital stations.

BILLETING PROBLEMS

"Billeting is a terrific problem," Mrs. Gibbs said. "Once when we expected 19 children from London, that being the maximum capacity for the village, the youngsters arrived with 19 mothers, all expecting to stay. We finally found room for them in another town nearby."

Mrs. Gurdon related an experience she had when 100 nursing sisters unexpectedly arrived at her home in Hertfordshire for lunch, 17 of them staying to live with here for a year. She stressed the importance of mobile canteens in big centres as the only way of feeding bombed-out victims when stationary kitchens are blasted.

Mrs. Gibbs was met at the boat Thursday by her sister-in-law, Mrs. Ralph Gibbs, who arrived recently from England to visit her three children and a niece who are staying with friends in Victoria. Mrs. Gibbs' family, famous horticulturists, are familiar to most garden-loving Victorians, having given their name to many varieties of flowers. Saturday evening Mrs. Gibbs will conduct the "Iron Duke" through an air-raid demonstration which will be given in front of the Y.M.C.A. building.

Air Mail Letters Abroad for 10c

Air mail letters to men in the services abroad, which usually cost 30 cents, may be sent for 10 cents after Saturday, it is announced by Hon. William P. Mulock, Postmaster-General. The letters must be sent on a special form which may be obtained at all post offices so they may be microphotographed for cheap mailing.

Last summer to overcome difficulties and delays of ordinary mail service between the British forces in the Middle East and friends and relatives in Britain, the British Post Office introduced the modern airgraph message system.

Enormous time and space is saved by the airgraph system. The original messages are photographed on microfilm at such a degree of reduction the photographic images of the letters will occupy less than one-200th the original area. In this way a roll of film contains 1,700 letter-pages yet it weighs only 100th of the original 1,700 pages.

The film is dispatched by air to Great Britain, where an enlargement is made of each message. The prints are then placed in envelopes and delivered to units by the Canadian Postal Corps.

At the outset airgraph service will not apply to civilian addresses in England. It is for men in the services.

The airgraph forms are available at all post offices. Experience has found that black ink gives the best results in reproduction. Payment is made by postage stamps affixed to the space provided on the reverse side of the form. The message must be handed in unfolded by the sender at the postal wicket. Envelopes must not be used.

The messages will be sent to Toronto by the quickest means for the processing for trans-Atlantic shipment.

Collishaw Meets His Daughters

VANCOUVER (CP)—Air Commodore Raymond Collishaw, Nanaimo flier and former commander of the Royal Air Force in the Middle East, stepped from a Trans-Canada Airlines plane here today on a visit to the Pacific coast, but said, when asked whether he would visit his former home at Nanaimo "I don't think so."

The air commodore, who was accompanied from the east by his wife, was met by his two daughters, Mary and Felicity of New Westminster, a sister, Mrs. Ena Stoddard, a Royal Canadian Air Force officer and A. W. Carter, Vancouver, who served with him in No. 16 naval squadron in the first Great War.

But he'd hardly finished greeting them, when he was cornered by 12-year-old Esmond McEachern, member of Vancouver Boys' Club, who presented the flier with a pencil and asked him to autograph the wing of a model plane he carried.

A civic welcoming party composed of Mayor J. W. Cornett was scheduled to meet the flier but he had wired ahead telling them not to meet the plane, which arrived here late.

Collishaw said he expected to stay here for several days.

Must Keep Houses In Decent Repair

If a landlord does not keep premises in an adequate state of repair, his tenant can apply to the local rent control officer for an order requiring such repairs or for a reduction in rent, Judge H. H. Shandley informed Alan Baker today as the latter appeared with an application for a rental increase on premises at Sidney owned by James Ramsay.

A difference of opinion arose between the landlord and tenant, George Weld, over the amount of improvements allegedly made on the house. As a result Judge Shandley called for receipts held by the owner for work carried out.

Milk for England

The Kinsman Clubs of Canada have sent 350,000 quarts of mik overseas to the children of Great Britain through the Kinsmen National War Services Committee. George Fawcett, chairman of the Victoria branch of the committee, told members, at a meeting Thursday night, that the fifth carload of milk had just been purchased for the British children by the 47 Kinsmen Club of Canada.

It was also announced that the Victoria Kinsmen Club had donated, through its recent automobile contest, $1,000 to the fund, this in addition to $2,000 given to the Lord Mayor's Fund.

A report on war work in the United States was given to the club by E. J. Savannah, who has just returned from a tour of Oregon and California. He said the people of these two states were doing extensive work for Great Britain.

'We Feel We Are Forgotten Men'

"We feel we are forgotten men—well, pretty near," a patient at Esquimalt Military Hospital writes to the Times.

"I have been here nearly four weeks and lots of others have been here longer. We all feel the same—that the public and certain organizations and clubs which in other parts of the Dominion see that the boys in hospitals are well looked after, really don't know we exist."

The author thanks the Y.M.C.A. for the pictures they show and those who come to see them. "Outside of this we don't exist," the letter continues. The patient says how on Remembrance Day a lone pilot visited the hospital. All they could do was listen to the radio, he says.

NEW DIRECTOR — James F. Stewart, assistant general manager of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, Toronto, has been named to the post of administrator of services for the War-time Prices and Trade Board, with headquarters in Toronto. The board includes 12 members.

SAVINGS FILM HERE TUESDAY

The new war savings film, "On to Victory," will have its first Victoria showing at the Women's Canadian Club Tuesday at the Empress Hotel.

This picture has been pronounced by responsible people in the movie industry as one of the most outstanding of its kind and a direct answer to anyone criticising Canadian war industry.

Any organizations wishing to show the film at meetings are requested to contact Mrs. H. S. Hurn at the central office of the Island War Savings Committee, government Street.

The war saving theme is taking on a garb of holly with the approach of the Christmas season. Within a week the National War Savings Committee, through the local committee, will ask people to give Yuletide presents of war savings stamps and certificates. In this way they will be helping out the war effort as well as giving friends valuable gifts.

Special Christmas folders with seasonal decorations will be obtainable from the first week in December until Christmas.

in a Shrunken Shirt?

Ever felt as though you'd been sold a hangman's noose instead of a shirt? Pretty miserable, isn't it? But it need never happen to you again! Simply insist on the "Sanforized" trade-mark on every shirt you buy. Then wear them and wash them as long as they stand up . . . they'll always fit perfectly. Because "Sanforized" is a trade-mark which promises that your shirt fabric won't shrink more than 1%. Whenever you buy shirts, insist on the "Sanforized" label. It's a small effort to assure permanent shirt comfort.

Look for the "Sanforized" label on sportswear . . slacks . . pyjamas . . shorts . . nurses uniforms . . dresses . . children's playsuits . . overalls and work clothes . . and all washables that should fit.

NEXT TIME INSIST ON SHIRTS WITH THE "SANFORIZED" TRADE-MARK AND BUY YOUR CORRECT SIZE!

SANFORIZED Insist on the "Sanforized" trade-mark when buying a Compressive-Shrunk fabric. It signifies that the residual shrinkage will be less than 1%, conforming to tests and standards established and supervised by the owner of the trade-mark.

JAPAN ARMY CALLS UP 1,000,000

TOKYO (AP)—The War Office announced today a drastic revision of Japan's conscription regulations, making scores of thousands hitherto exempted liable to early summons to military service.

The revision provides that all men of the last 10 military classes who were exempted because of inferior physical condition shall be called for re-examination and possible induction into the forces.

This applies to all classes back to and including that of 1931—men between the ages of 20 and 30.

The new regulations also change the status of certain officers and noncommissioned officers of the reserve, making them more readily available for duty. This applies to noncoms up to 41 years old and officers up to 51.

Official estimates of the numbers of men involved were not immediately available.

It is expected more than 1,000,000 men will be affected by the new rulings.

William Edward, 1261 Oscar Street, was taken to the Jubilee Hospital Thursday night, where he was treated for head injuries sustained in an automobile accident on Esquimalt Road, near Head Street. The car which was driven by Peggy Wright went into a skid when the wheel caught in the car tracks and landed against a dirt bank.

British Fleet Loses Ark Royal

Famous Plane Carrier Sunk

LONDON (CP) — The three-year-old aircraft carrier Ark Royal was torpedoed late Thursday east of Gibraltar by a submarine and sank early today despit a great effort to bring the listing 22,000-ton ship safely to port.

She carried down with her an undisclosed number of her crew of about 1,600 men who remained aboard in the struggle to save the ship.

"A very large number of the ship's company was taken off," the Admiralty said, and indications were that personnel losses were "fortunately not heavy."

The story of the sinking, pieced together from the Admiralty's brief announcement and word in authoritative quarters, was that the Ark Royal was not in action when she was torpedoed and that she was en route to Gibraltar.

The suggestion was an Italian submarine fired the torpedo, although there was no positive identification.

Many of the company remained aboard and helped to keep the Ark Royal afloat, in tow, during the hours of darkness as she listed farther and farther. She finally rolled under the sea, short of Gibraltar and safety.

H.M.S. ARK ROYAL

False Reports From Enemy

The Ark Royal was one of the most famous ships in the fleet and veteran of repeated engagements with the Germans and Italians whose propaganda agencies a number of times had claimed she was sunk or severely damaged.

She was the third aircraft carrier lost by Britain in the war, and the newest of the three. Her sinking was the greatest single loss suffered by the Royal Navy since the avenged sinking of the battlecruiser Hood by the German battleship Bismarck between Greenland and Iceland last May 24.

She carried about 60 planes.

The Admiralty communique identified the submarine as a "U-boat," which, while originally a German designation, might apply also to an Italian submarine.

The vessel was under the command of Capt. L. E. H. Maund, but whether the commander was among the casualties was not made public.

His wife in London said: "So far I have had no news as to whether my husband is safe."

More Carriers Than at War's Start

Despite loss of the Ark Royal the fleet has more aircraft carriers than at the start of the war—seven in commission and two scheduled for completion in 1942, as indicated by the naval manual, "Jane's Fighting Ships."

Those believed in operation are the Eagle, 22,600 tons, and the Furious, 22,450, both converted battleships; the 23,000-ton Illustrious, which has been repaired after a pounding in the Mediterranean; the Illustrious' newer sistership, the Victorious, formidable and Indomitable, and the small 10,850-ton Hermes, which carries 15 planes.

Scheduled for completion in 1942 and possibly completed already, are the Implacable and Indefatigable, sisters of the Illustrious. The Illustrious was last reported under repair in the United States after she had been bombed and all but sunk in the Mediterranean.

The other British aircraft carriers sunk since the war starte were the 22,500-ton Courageous, which was torpeoed by a U-boat September 17, 1939, two weeks after the outbreak of the war, and her sister ship, the Glorious, which went down June 8, 1940, off northern Norway in a sea battle with the German battleships Scharnhorst and Gueisenau. They were built in 1937.

The Germans claimed the Ark Royal had been sunk by bombs during the first month of the war. Three times after that the Italians claimed to have damaged her badly during air attacks in the Mediterranean between Sardinia and Gibraltar.

Captured Prize Off Norway

In the first days of the war the Ark Royal captured a German ship as a prize off Norway. Later, when the carrier entered the harbor at Rio de Janeiro to take on fuel and supplies, a seaman said she had been struck by a bomb off Norway, but was not put out of action.

The Ark Royal's planes carried out a major aerial attack on Sardinia a year ago, only a few days after she had been reported without confirmation to have been set afire by a bomb hit at Gibraltar. The Italians said she was damaged seriously during the Sardinia operation, but she went into action again less than three months later, participating in the British shelling and bomb attack on Genoa.

Her planes took part in the far-flung Atlantic search in which the German battleship Bismarck was trapped and sunk last spring.

Her complement of officers and men before the war was 1,575, but this number probably was increased. Also before the war she carried 60 planes.

From Arctic To South Africa

Telling the history of the famous ship, the Admiralty said the Ark Royal "served in many theatres of war from the Arctic Circle to the Cape of Good Hope."

"She hunted U-boats, searched for raiders, provided fighter protection for troops and for convoys, and played a vital part in the destruction of the Bismarck," said an Admiralty statement.

It said that in her "brilliant service," the Ark Royal's aircraft shot down or severely damaged more than 100 German and Italian aircraft, 67 of them in the Mediterranean.

Biggest Timber Deal

Vancouver Island Tract Sold for $14,000,000

VANCOUVER — Topping all previous deals in the history of British Columbia a vast tract of Vancouver Island forest, involving an expenditure of more than $14,000,000, has been purchased by American interests.

The transaction may not be completed for a few days, but 3,000,000,000 or 4,000,000,000 feet of standing timber are being acquired at once in the Nimpkish River country, and an additional 3,000,000,000 or 4,000,000,000 feet will be taken over as soon as pending financial arrangements are made.

Both in the amount of money and volume of timber represented the deal dwarfs all precedents in this province and ranks among the largest in the annals of Pacific Northwest timber expansion.

As an indication of the magnitude of the operation it is recalled that the historic purchase by H. R. MacMillan and his associates of the Alberni-Pacific property and the Rockefeller forest near the west coast of Vancouver Island represented only about a quarter of the amount being paid out for the Nimpkish River tract—the last big solid stand of timber remaining on Vancouver Island.

Purchasers from a group of timber holders who have retained possession for many years are American interests headed by Ossian Anderson of Bellingham, president of Puget Sound Pulp and Timber Company, and one of the biggest operators in the Puget Sound district.

Principal holders of the timber purchased were the International Harvester Company of Chicago, whose Canadian subsidiary is known as Canadian Forest Products Company Ltd.

PLANS FOR LOGGING

Steps are being taken at once for the logging of a part of the area. The logs will be sold in the open market in Canada, principally to the sawmills, as Douglas fir predominates and only a comparatively small proportion of the timber is suitable for pulping purposes.

A program for effective sustained yield operation will be adopted so as to ensure a long-range and economical operation.

Probably a full year will be required in reconstruction and new road building to place the area in production.

COMPANY OFFICERS

Officers of the new Canadian company which control and operate the timber are: Fred Stevenot of San Francisco, chairman and director; Ossian Anderson, president and director; Walter De Long, vice-president and director; Fred Brown of Vancouver, vice-president and director; Lawson Turcotte, secretary-treasurer and director; Frank Arnt, assistant secretary-treasurer.

The new owners have selected Fred Brown and F. W. Kirkland and J. Fraser, all of Vancouver, to manage the operations, and thus place the property in the hands of experienced timber managers and logging executives familiar with British Columbia conditions.

Although ownership of the stock in the new company is American, the corporation is Canadian, and thus American capital is being invested in Canada to build a new, large enterprise which will offer much employment and contribute greatly to the advancement of the province.

The first construction job to be undertaken will probably be the laying of about 12 miles of track to Nimpkish Lake. Eventually the line will be 50 miles long with perhaps 100 miles of subsidiary track to the shifting location of logging operations.

BRITISH AWAIT FIRST U.S. SHIPS

LONDON (AP) — How soon and how fast American vessels loaded with lease-lend materials will reach British ports was a subject of speculation here today following repeal by Congress of vital sections of the United States Neutrality Act.

The London Daily Express suggested the first ships would arrive from Iceland, which formerly was the last stop for U.S. vessels carrying supplies for Britain, while other sources thought that among the first arrivals might be the same American-owned ships which have been coming to Britain regularly under Panamanian registry.

These ships already are loaded and routed here, it was said, and need only to change their registry in order for them to hoist the Stars and Stripes again.

All sources confidently expected U.S. warships would escort the newly-armed supply ships directly into British harbors, and thus the neutrality repeal was regarded as important not only in supplementing Britain's shipping and protective patrols, but also in releasing British merchantmen and warships for other urgent tasks.

CONSCRIPTION

Conscription talk still prevails in the House of Commons, despite Prime Minister Mackenzie King's assurances that his government would not institute conscription for overseas service.

Thursday afternoon Hon. Pierre Casgrain, Secretary of State, declared his opposition to conscription. On the other hand, Hon. W. Earl Rowe (Cons., Dufferin-Simcoe) challenged Mr. Casgrain's arguments.

"I say the great majority of the Canadian people do not want conscription and I know the vast majority of the population of Quebec are against it," said Mr. Casgrain, adding the mandate given the government at the last general election was given on the basis of no conscription and the people had not changed their minds.

"I don't think the government has a mandate for many of the things they are doing," Mr. Rowe said. The government had imposed conscription for home defence, but the government had no mandate for that, said Mr. Rowe. There is conscription for service in Canada, where there was likely to be no fighting, but no conscription for service where Canada's first line of defence stood, on the English Channel.

NO APOLOGY

"I make no apology for my own part in the election," said Mr. Rowe. "We had the same policy as the gentlemen opposite and we proclaimed it on the billboards up and down this country."

Mr. Casgrain said the entire population of Quebec is as one in supporting the policies of the Prime Minister.

If there is any danger of disunity arising in Canada from conscription it is because the Liberal party has played politics with the issue in Quebec, said Mr. Rowe, adding "I plead with them now not to play politics."

Rev. E. G. Hansell, acting New Democracy leader, said he failed to understand how Conservatives could change their minds on conscription so quickly. The Conservatives were not willing to go as far as New Democracy at the election 18 months ago, he recalled.

"One can come to only one of two conclusions," said Mr. Hansell, "either the Conservatives are indulging in political opportunism by grasping at what may be regarded in some opinionated circles as a growing public sentiment over the subject of conscription or they were not farsighted enough to see what might happen 18 months afterwards.

"Now for a party to bid for power that cannot see 18 months ahead is, well, I wouldn't vote for them anyway. I do not think I shall ever vote for an old-line party again."

Conservative leader Hanson expressed the fear that the small businessman will suffer under a "trial and error" experiment in price freezing.

Questioning of Finance Minister Ilsley on the government's ceiling program, which will become effective December 1 was opened by Grote Sterling, Conservative, Yale, who asked what steps would be taken to protect retailers from a loss on articles which they had ordered before the basic period.

In replying Mr. Ilsley said the problem was not restricted to retailers, but included wholesalers and producers.

A. W. Neill, Independent, Comox-Alberni, also expressed fear of the effect of the ceiling program on the small retailer and in this he was joined by Angus MacInnes, C.C.F., Vancouver East.

Mr. Neill said he had received letters from small retailers in his constituency who said that since the price-fixing announcement they were paying higher wholesale prices than they themselves were charging on a retail basis during the four-week basic period of September 15 to October 11.

NEARING LIMIT

Mr. Ilsley said the government's policy was to "tax just as far as it is possible," but he added he did not see how taxes much heavier than those now imposed could be undertaken.

Victor Quelch, New Democracy, Acadia, provoked the discussion when he said he thought wartime financial procedure should be "to tax those who have the greatest amount to lose as a result of the war—they should be prepared to make such sacrifices in line with the sacrifices which are being made overseas."

Mr. Ilsley said "the taxation this year, together with other revenues of the government which are insignificant compared with the taxation revenue, will yield between $1,400,000,000 and $1,500,000,000." He said that if money was not borrowed from the people they would spend it rather than place it in the banks. The result would be a direct upward pressure on the price level because of the increased purchasing power brought about by the war.

"So," he said, "from a practical standpoint the only thing to do is to secure the money from the people, to channel money back to the government from the people, either by taxation or by borrowing and we have to offer some incentive to people to lend money to the government and that is why we pay interest."

Mr. Quelch said he thought it an "unfortunate state of affairs" that when certain people bought $500,000 worth of bonds they were called patriots. The same words were used to honor the men who went overseas, prepared to sacrifice their lives.

A report was read stating that Christmas boxes had been dispatched to boys serving overseas. Members donated jams and jellies for the Queen Alexandra Solarium. Mrs. W. Henderson was appointed Institute representative to the Christmas Tree committee.

STRAWBERRY VALE

The affair was sponsored by Mrs. E. Groutage. Mrs. E. Watling rendered a vocal solo, "Lords of the Air," and Mrs. S. Rodman gave a reading, "Private of the Buffs." Games and contests were enjoyed, prizes being awarded to Mesdames E. Watling, G. Gilham, A. E. Campion, R. Peters and Miss M. Bastedo. A silver collection was taken realizing the sum of $18.50.

For "GOODNESS" Sake!

MORE THAN A MILLION CANADIAN WOMEN ARE REACHING FOR—

● There are specific reasons for this overwhelming preference for Libby's Tomato Juice. It is Libby's patented "Gentle Press" method which extra-gently extracts the pure, nourishing juice of the tomato, retaining all the health-giving vitamins A and C. Only Libby's have the right to use this "Gentle Press" process. And it is also because the tomato seeds are selected from the choicest tomatoes in each successive year's crop. The plants are carefully tended under Libby's supervision, babied and nurtured until they produce luscious, plump, smooth-skinned tomato beauties, fairly bursting with juice, carrying essential vitamins, minerals and flavour.

There's a world of difference in this "Gentle Press" Tomato Juice—for 'goodness' sake, try it.

This poster just issued by the Ministry of Health demonstrates the unimpressed courage of the British under imminent threat of destruction. It calmly urges families to prearrange lodging with friends to avoid confusion should their homes be blown down on them and should they escape the blast. Simply by investing liberally in War Savings Certificates Canadians can keep such appalling dangers far from their homes.

LLOYD BAKER, Times reporter, leaves Vancouver tonight for Toronto to enter the R.C.A.F. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Baker, 2307 Belmont Avenue. Victoria born, he was educated at the Oaklands School and Victoria High School. He is 22 years old and was on the Times staff four years. He is well known in sport circles in Victoria through his work as sports reporter and more recently covered the police beat when his friend, Roy Thorsen, left to join the Canadian Scottish. Lloyd makes the seventh member of the editorial staff who has left the city, the army, navy and air force all being represented.

ORSON WELLES IN 'CITIZEN KANE'

Taking as its theme the story of a forceful young millionaire who determines to let nothing stop him from becoming the biggest man in the country, Orson Welles' initial film, "Citizen Kane," coming to the Capitol Theatre tomorrow, is said to be one of the most unusual pictures ever made.

Throughout the film the character of Charles Foster Kane is revealed first from one viewpoint and then from another as his various intimates picture the man. Because of this unique treatment, audiences are bound to differ in their estimates of the colorful business king—and this is probably what Welles intended.

Parachute Corps In Newest Film

Thrilling behind - the - scenes training provides the background for RKO Radio's "Parachute Battalion," the feature attraction appearing at the Dominion Theatre. The story is one of powerful emotional appeal and co-stars such favorites as Robert Preston, Nancy Kelly, Edmond O'Brien and Harry Carey, while Buddy Ebsen, Paul Kelly, Richard Cromwell and Robert Barratt are featured.

Aside from its suspense, and its perfectly balanced story, "Parachute Battalion" offers astonishing realism, and a truthful depiction of the newest branch of the fighting forces, the parachute corps.

Ginger Rogers in Sparkling Comedy

Ginger Rogers in a gay, sparkling romantic comedy!

That should be good news to the vivacious star's many fans. Audiences at the Atlas Theatre, where "Tom, Dick and Harry is showing will welcome Ginger in this, her first film since winning the coveted Academy Award for her sterling work in "Kitty Foyle."

Ginger, as a madcap little telephone operator, has three romantic leading men playing opposite her. George Murphy, Alan Marshal and Burgess Meredith.

2 MEN KILLED IN TRAIN CRASH

VANCOUVER (CP)—Engineer H. O. D. McDonald and Fireman J. P. Riley, both of Vancouver, were killed today when a Vancouver-bound Canadian Pacific Railway train struck a slide on the Kettle Valley line at Romeo, 117 miles east of Vancouver.

The head engine stayed on the track, but the second engine left the rails and plunged 200 feet down an embankment, killing the two men.

Nine railway cars loaded with passengers stayed on the track and none of the passengers was injured.

The passengers, re-routed via the Merritt subdivision, will arrive in Vancouver tonight.

C.P.R. officials said the line would be cleared early tonight.

YORK THEATRE

To the man with whose name millions associate danger and evil-doing goes this year's highest award for contributions to safety among pedestrians and motorists.

So proud that he buttonholed everybody on the "Brother Orchid" set to talk about it, Edward G. Robinson revealed that he had just been announced the winner of the National Safety Council's prize for the most valuable individual contribution to traffic safety. Last year's award went to Eddie Cantor.

Edward G. Robinson's special contribution to traffic safety was a series of radio dramatizations on how many accidents may be avoided by use of caution.

PLAZA THEATRE

Miss McDonald was formerly the featured singer with the Tommy Dorsey and Charlie Barnett orchestras, and wts also one of John Powers' most famous models.

CADET THEATRE

A film replete with sprightly dialogue, fine acting and delightfully humorous situations is Warner Bros.' "No Time for Comedy," currently at the Cadet Theatre.

The picture stars two of moviegoers' most popular players, James Stewart and Rosalind Russell. Stewart plays the part of a country playwright who comes to the big town and startles everyone by writing so understandingly of the "Park Avenue crowd."

B.C. Corvette Rescued Crews

BOSTON (AP)—Fifteen survivors of the torpedoed freighter Bold Venture, arriving at Boston today, reported 13 vessels in their convoy of 53 ships were sunk in the North Atlantic on the same night—October 16—and that two others had been lost a day or two previously.

The United States destroyer Kearny was also torpedoed October 16.

Rescued crew members of the Bold Venture, which formerly was the Danish steamship Alsund but had been placed under Panama registry, held little hope that their 18 missing shipmates were alive. None of the missing were Americans, the survivors said, although some gave addresses in the United States.

Those lost, according to the rescued seamen, all were in the after section of the Bold Venture, which literally was blown away by a torpedo when the ship was attacked 500 miles from Iceland.

The only one who might have escaped death, they said, was Chief Steward Karl Clausen, who was on deck at the time.

Speaking from the rail of the vessel that brought them to Boston, several sailors said they believed 15 submarines had participated in the mass attack.

Survivors said that among the victims of the attack on the convoy were the steamships Silver Cedar and Islay.

PRAISE FOR COMMANDER

The survivors were warm in their plaise of Lieut.-Cmdr. George Windeyer of the Canadian corvette Wetaskawin, which picked them up about an hour after the Bold Venture had sunk.

While the corvette was engaged in rescue work, they added one torpedo passed 20 feet from her stern.

Among the men taken from the water by the Canadian corvette, according to the Bold Venture's survivors, were 22 members of the crew of the tanker Barfonn, some of whom were burned or severely injured.

Members of the Bold Venture's crew said they had been harassed by submarines for three nights before the sinking, which they placed at about midnight, 250 miles northwest of Ireland. All will go to New York and the majority said they would ship out again as soon as they could find berths.

The corvette Wetaskawin was built by the Burrard Drydock Company Limited at North Vancouver and named after an Alberta town.

18,000-MILE FLIGHT TO LINK 3 CONTINENTS—Off on an 18,290-mile flight that will span an ocean and link three continents, the Pan-American Airways' Cape Town Clipper, above, zips across LaGuardia Field marine base for its historic take-off. The huge ship carried 40 passengers on the first leg of the route-proving flight, with first stop at Natal, on the bulge of Brazil. From there it will hop the Atlantic to Bathhurst, Africa, below Dakar, thence to Lagos, British Nigeria, ending up at Leopoldville, Belgian Congo.

Record in Sight

VANCOUVER (CP)—A British Columbia salmon pack record appeared in sight today with less than 58,843 cases to be packed to reach the former mark of 2,221,000 cases set up in 1930.

The salmon pack up to November 8 totaled 2,162,157, cases it was shown today in figures released by J. A. Motherwell, chief supervisor of fisheries. This is just 58,843 cases short of the all-time record.

This year's pack compares with a total of 1,412,544 cases last year and is bigger than any in the past 11 years.

The pack this year for different varieties with last year's figures in brackets follows: Sockeye, 454,870 (361,424); springs, 49,983 (17,203); steelheads, 3,429 (998); bluebacks, 30,011 (23,194); coho, 430,378 (213,313); pinks, 430,378 (213,313); chums, 833,700 (607,149).

Collision Inquiry

SEATTLE (AP) — Witnesses at a U.S. marine inspection and navigation board hearing Thursday testified that neither the steamer North Coast nor the tug Canada blew any warning signal before their collision a mile off Marrowstone Point early Sunday. The Canadian-owned tug sank after the crash, but its crew was rescued.

Pilot Gustav Glase and Quartermaster George Lewis, both on watch at the time of the accident, said the tug had swung sharply to the left shortly before the crash.

The pilot said he recalled exclaiming at the time: "What in hell's he trying to do?"

Of the 36,000,000 telephone users in the world, more than one-half are in North America.

Launching Set Next Thursday

There will be no fanfare at the launching of Sa. Fort Churchill, which will be sent afloat next Thursday at 4.30 from the North Vancouver shipyard of the Burrard Dry Dock Company Ltd. There will be no ceremony or champagne baptism, according to Clarence Wallace, president of the company. The men who built the vessel will act as her "launching party."

Wartime Merchant Shipping Ltd., the organization under which Canada's great fleet of steel cargo carriers is being built, has decided that henceforth only the first vessel launched at each Canadian yard will be christened with traditional launching ceremonies.

This means that only the first hulls launched at the local plants of the Victoria Machinery Depot Ltd. and Yarrows Ltd. will be floated with ceremony when they are completed. All ships following will just slide into the water without fuss.

Dies in Storm

Paul Good, Nanaimo Indian, died before the eyes of an Indian companion, Mac Thomas, on the pitching deck of a fishing boat in a Gulf of Georgia storm Thursday after they had been thrown overboard by the giant waves and had clambered back to safety.

Gordon McKee of Bowser went to the rescue in a rowboat, bringing Thomas and the dead man to shore. Coroner Dr. J. McKee is arranging an inquiry. Good leaves his widow at Sunny Beach, V.I.

Liner Shadowed

EDMONTON (CP)—How a "mystery ship" shadowed the American liner Excambion in mid-Atlantic, zig-zagged across her course, then disappeared, was recounted by Fraser M. Gerrie, managing editor of the Edmonton Journal in an address here.

"It might have been a German raider," said Mr. Gerrie, who recently visited Britain with a party of Canadian editors, "but more likely it was a British patrol vessel.

Sighting the vessel, which remained a mile off, was the only notable thing seen on the crossing from Lisbon to New York. Mr. Gerrie said.

MOTHER SHIPS DOING MAJOR JOB

By LARRY ALLEN

ALEXANDRIA, Egypt (AP)—Britain's floating foundries are doing a hang-up job of keeping the warships of the Mediterranean fleet in top shape.

Behind every battleship, cruiser, destroyer, submarine or smaller warcraft going to sea, there is a depot ship turning out everything needed, from bread to nuts and bolts.

The fighting ships in the Mediterranean have their own mother ships in Alexandria harbor constantly on the alert to deal with any job except major refitting or actually making guns and shells.

Aboard a 10,000-ton depot ship for destroyers I saw hundreds of men repairing spare parts needed to keep destroyers in fighting trim.

Deep in the ship there was a foundry, where steel and iron are melted and turned into new parts.

In other parts of the ship I visited the shipwright's section, where wooden parts are produced; and workshops of the coppersmiths and electric welders.

Above decks the ship's bakery turns out tons of bread to supply many destroyers, several corvettes, torpedo boats and minelayers.

Nearly 1,000 sailors and 50 officers are engaged on this one depot ship alone in an important job which rarely reaches the headlines.

Premier's Advice To McNaughton

OTTAWA (CP)—Considerable discussion has developed among members of the House of Commons over a statement made by Jean Francois Pouliot, Liberal, Temiscouata, Que., in his speech to the House last Tuesday.

Mr. Pouliot said he felt it his duty to answer "some charges, some insinuations" made about Prime Minister Mackenzie King. He did not identify the charges and insinuations specifically.

"There is something . . . that has not been said either over the radio or elsewhere about the recommendation made by my chief (Mr. King) to the commander of the Canadian army in England (Lt.-Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton)," he said.

"It was this: That he should do his best to spare the lives of his soldiers; and the young fools that made some noise when the Prime Minister visited them ignored the fact that if they were still alive, if they had not been killed in the Dunkerque retreat, it was because of the very wise and patriotic recommendation of my leader, the chief of the Liberal Party, the Prime Minister of Canada. It is time to say that."

QUESTIONS

Some minutes later, after Mr. Pouliot had ended his speech, Mr. King said that while he understood Mr. Pouliot had been "chivalrously speaking on my behalf," he had a duty as leader of the House which the country would expect him to perform.

The object of the procedure adopted by the House was to enable members to question the various ministers. While members should be given latitude, the discussion should relate primarily to the department whose minister had his statement before the House at the moment.

Later G. S. White, Conservative, Hastings-Peterborough, mentioned Mr. Pouliot's speech.

"Mr. Speaker," he said, "I have listened to the remarks of the honorable member for Temiscouata and I wish to take the strongest exception possible to the remarks which he made when he alluded to Canadian soldiers overseas as young fools. I submit that no one in Canada, least of all . . ."

"Not all of them," Mr. Pouliot interjected.

New York Stocks

NEW YORK (AP)—Hopes for a labor armistice, especially in the coal field where a threatened shutdown menaced United States defence steel production, today helped the stock market get back on the upgrade.

Prominent in the recovery column most of the session were U.S. Steel, Bethlehem, Youngstown Sheet, Santa Fe, Southern Pacific, Union Pacific, Chrysler, General Motors, Montgomery Ward, Caterpillar Tractor, American Telephone, Anaconda, American Smelting, U.S. Gypsum, Westinghouse, American Can and Standard Oil (N.J.).

Liggett & Myers B, on the other hand, slipped to a new low for the year.

Canadian stocks rallied to fractions higher. Dome Mines and Lake Shore each gained ⅛, McIntyre Mines ⅝; Walkers ⅛ and Distillers Seagram ⅛.

Taxes at Peak

OTTAWA (CP)—Taxes, now serving as an effective check on excessive war profits, are practically at their peak and, the House of Commons was told by Finance Minister Ilsley, the government has no definite course of further taxation in sight.

"I do not know just where to do or how to proceed to tax more heavily than we are doing now," he said.

Metals Stay Steady

TORONTO (CP) — Sentiment respecting old stocks brightened noticeably in today's Toronto exchange operations and the group edged forward for a moderate index gain, despite the outlook for a strike of miners at Kirkland Lake.

Dome and Lake Shore improved fractions and small gains were collected by Hollinger, Wright-Hargreaves, Macassa, Teck-Hughes, Perron, East Malartic and Sylvanite.

Nickel, Smelters and Hudson Bay were fairly active base metals with prices holding steady. Steep Rock firmed 2 to 1.77.

Senior oil, steel and miscellaneous industrials displayed general easiness while utilities held steady but for a loss of 1½ for Bell Telephone to 147½ on sizeable trading volume. Cockshutt Plow advanced ½ to 6¼, helped by the dividend announcement.

In western oils, Calgary and Edmonton, Home and Okalta were down slightly.

Nickel Declines

MONTREAL (CP) — Most groups on the stock market today were under mild selling pressure and slips were general except in the case of a few leaders, which showed stubbornness.

Hollinger was out in front but Consolidated Smelters and International Nickel gave ground and Imperial Oil was behind. Lake of the Woods, ex-dividend, Distillers-Seagram and National Breweries wore plus signs.

Wheat

WINNIPEG (CP) — Wheat futures closed ⅛ to ⅝ lower on Winnipeg Grain Exchange today. December future finished at 73¼ cents, May 76⅞ and July 78⅛a.

Scarcity of offerings played an important part in the firm trend of the market. At times the pit was entirely deserted although Canadian wheat export business overnight was estimated at 500,000 bushels.

Chicago followed an erratic trend and was fractionally higher near the close, while Buenos Aires edged foward a little.

Cash wheat dealings again featured demand for Nos. 3 and 4 northern grades, with shippers and mills reporting difficulty in getting sufficient supplies. Some sales of top-grade wheat to shippers and mills were made with spreads reported ⅛ to ¼ cent improved.

Coarse grains operations included spreading, shipper purchases of barley and oats, crusher demand for flax and southern buying in rye. Near the close most grains were fractionally higher.

CHICAGO (AP)—Wheat prices tried to rally again today but early gains of almost two cents a bushel, which brokers attributed partly to market reaction to revision of the Neutrality Act were reduced later.

GADSDEN TO RUN FOR ALDERMAN

Alderman B. J. Gadsden today announced his intention of seeking re-election to the City Council, raising to six the number of aspirants for the five aldermanic seats which become vacant at the end of December.

"I had intended to offer myself as a candidate for mayor, but I find that my private affairs at present will not permit me to assume the greater responsibilities of that office. I hope that on a future occasion I will be able to ask the support of the electors as a mayoralty candidate," Alderman Gadsden said.

He joins Alderman Ed. Williams, W. T. Hawkins, School Trustee F. A. Willis, George E. MacDonald and Mrs. Alice McGregor in the field.

Alderman Gadsden's decision greatly reduced the possibility of a mayoralty contest, but did not eliminate it entirely.

In the school board division three trustees, F. G. Mulliner, W. A. Bayliss and James S. McMillan have signified their intention of seeking re-election. There are four two-year terms ending this December. H. E. Douglas has indicated his readiness to stand for one. For the one-year term by-election Dr. G. A. B. Hall is the only aspirant to date.

London Parrot Calls Air Raid Warning

People in London, England, have been talking about a parrot known by the common parrot name of Polly. This bird is 14 years old, and belongs to Mr. H. W. Moss, chief officer of a fire brigade, who has the nickname of "Monty."

When the bell rings to call Mr. Moss to a fire, the parrot shouts, "Phone, Monty! Phone, Monty!"

Polly also listens for air raid sirens, and on hearing one shouts "Siren, Monty! Siren, Monty!"

Polly warning her master.

Polly can sing songs, such as "Ramona" and "I want to go to bed." She is also able to count as high as 10, but makes one mistake along the way, saying "five seven, six" instead of "five, six, seven."

Polly is by no means the first famous parrot in London's history. From time to time, other parrots have won special notice there. Back in 1822, a London newspaper carried this story:

"A few days ago there died in Piccadilly the parrot of Colonel O'Kelley. This bird sang a number of songs in perfect tune. She could express her wants and give orders. Her age was not known, but Colonel O'Kelley bough her at Bristol more than 30 years ago, for 100 guineas.

The Colonel was offered as much as 500 guineas by persons who wanted to show her in public, but he refused because of tenderness for his favorite. When singing, she beat time. If, by chance, she mistook a note she would go back where the mistake was made and correct herself, still beating time."

The parrot's power of talking has been known for thousands of years. A story has come down from the time of ancient Rome of how one of the birds helped to bring freedom for a prisoner. Here is the story:

"Bacilius Macedo, Roman emperor, was seated at a banquet table when a parrot began to talk. 'Alas, alas!" exclaimed the parrot. 'Poor Prince Leo!'

"Hearing the words, the guests showed signs of feeling sad, and some of them stopped eating. The emperor called to them to go on with the banquet, but one replied, 'How can we eat, Sire, when this bird makes us think of the wrong being suffered by your son, the prince? All of us know that Prince Leo was not guilty of the crime for which he was placed in prison!'

"Instead of growing angry, the emperor became thoughtful. Later he ordered his son to be set free."

THIS CURIOUS WORLD

By William Ferguson

Dorothy Dix's Letter Box

DEAR MISS DIX—I am a widow with an 11-year-old child. Four years ago I married a young man a few years my junior, but I am still in my early thirties. The three of us love each other very dearly and get along beautifully. My present husband adopted my son legally and is being a real father to him in every respect. But, although my husband is devoted to me, I always have a feeling that my present happiness is only temporary and that one of these days he will fall in love with some one younger and leave me for greener pastures. He does not want more children, but is easily influenced. Do you think that if he had a child of his own it would bind him more securely to me?

WORRIED.

Answer—Possibly, but if he has all the family he wants to support he might resent another baby instead of welcoming it. Still a sense of duty and responsibility does keep many a man chained to the domestic chariot who might otherwise jump the bars.

But what is the matter with you, borrowing trouble before there is any need of it and looking out for storms before there is a cloud on your horizon? You have a good husband who loves you. Why not enjoy the blessings the gods have sent you instead of ruining it all by worrying over something that may never happen?

DEAR MISS DIX—Why will a man, who is kind, thoughtful, unselfish and all that a wife can ask as long as things run along smoothly, become aloof and intolerant when his wife is tired and nervous from overwork and needs affection and understanding more than at any other time? Why don't husbands realize that wives need a boost when things go wrong as much as they do?

TIRED WIFE.

Answer: Perhaps it is because men depend more spiritually upon their wives than wives do upon their husbands. Or perhaps it is because men realize that when it comes to bearing things women have more endurance than they have.

You must have noticed that it is almost invariably the wife who makes the atmosphere of a home. If she is gay and cheerful and optimistic, the house is full of sunshine and laughter, even if the husband contributes very little mirth to it.

Husbands just naturally turn to their wives for comfort when they are in trouble, and a wife misses a great bet when she doesn't forget how worried she is and cheer him up.

Painters Seek Wage Increase

Local Union 1163, Painters, Decorators and Paperhangers of America, will petition the Department of Labor for an increase in wages.

Since painters in Vancouver have been granted an award of 90 cents an hour, local painters feel this should be extended to Victoria and other points. It was contended at a recent meeting here that the cost of living was higher in Victoria and that as a rule the work in the painting trade is not as steady here.

The meeting decided to inform the Dominion Department of Labor that labor is desirous of and should be included on all government war boards.

BRITAIN STILL NEEDS FOOD

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some 250,000 tons of United States food are reaching Britain each month now, but even so Secretary of Agriculture Wickard said an average American could consume an Englishman's weekly ration of fresh meat, bacon, ham, eggs and cheese at one meal "without feeling he'd over-eaten."

Agriculture department officials said British housewives can buy all the floor they need and that Britain was producing all the potatoes and most of the vegetables required, but they added it was this country's job to produce the meat, eggs and dairy products required for shipment abroad under a $1,000,000,000 fund ear-marked for food under the second lease-lend fund.

Oak Bay Council

Endorses Protest Of Power Surtax

Oak Bay Council, at a meeting Thursday, endorsed in principle the resolution of the Victoria Council protesting the Dominion 8 per cent surtax on electrical energy.

Since rates are higher in western than eastern Canada, the resolution suggests it would be fairer if the quantity rather than the value of electrical energy be taxed. North Vancouver, Nanaimo, Burnaby and Esquimalt have similarly endorsed the proposal of Victoria.

The council ordered the municipal clerk to prepare the required by-law for the completion of the sale by Victoria of 3,200 square feet of land off the fair grounds to widen Cadboro Bay Road. The price set is $450.

Authority was granted to issue a building permit for a proposed house at 3235 Weald Road, Uplands. The value of the house is to be $9,500.

The council discussed the proposed plan of the National Salvage Office, Ottawa, to collect waste fats and bones along with garbage. No action was taken, it being decided to discuss the plan with a salvage official who is coming to Victoria. Already the municipality has received phone calls asking what action they are taking. The fats, if the plan is adopted, would be collected by the Army Soap Works at Work Point Barracks.

A separate collection would be "most uneconomical," the municipal engineer reported. The problem, therefore, is how to keep the fat and bones separate from the garbage.

Another problem which would obviously be encountered if bones are collected was brought to the attention of the council by Councillor J. V. Johnson: "What will the dogs do?" he asked.

Earl Carroll to Keep Brother's Ashes in Room

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Showman Earl Carroll must keep the ashes of his brother, Maj. James H. Carroll, in his room under terms of the will filed for probate. Maj. Carroll, who died October 21 at the age of 50, left his $10,000 estate to Earl. The will said that persons like to hear what is said about them. "I may be able to listen in on conversations even if I am only ashes," it read.

Kiwanis Head

Alastair Campbell, Vice-president of the Kiwanis Club during the past year, was chosen president at the last club meeting. He will take office January 2, 1942, succeeding Percy Waters. Affiliated with service clubs in eastern Canada since 1922, Mr. Campbell has been a member of the Victoria Kiwanis for three and a half years. He was transferred to Victoria as district freight agent for the Canadian National Railways in 1937. Besides his activities with the Kiwanis he is a member of the Chamber of Commerce and the Union Club. He is a captain in the Community Chest drive committee and an enthusiastic golfer.

Priorities Affect Export Circles

OTTAWA (CP) — In a joint statement by Munitions Minister Howe and Trade Minister Mackinnon, Canadian exporters have been warned that manufacturing for export must not be started until an export permit has been obtained.

The ruling had been made necessary because of the scarcity of many basic materials required for effective prosecution of the war.

The statement contained a warning by the Wartime Industries Control Board that the approval of an export license does not guarantee the materials necessary for the manufacture of the product concerned will be forthcoming.

The statement also called attention to a section of export permit regulations dated April 8, 1941, which urged exporters to co-operate with the export permit branch by applying for export permits, when possible, at the time of receipt of the order.

Call-ups Delayed

OTTAWA (CP) — Postponements of military training in Canada total 35,042 to date, G. H. Castleden, C.C.F., Yorkton, Sask., was informed in the Commons by War Services Minister Thorsen. This was exclusive of conscientious objectors, who totaled 378.

By provinces the exemptions were: Ontario, 9,071; Quebec, 14,804; Nova Scotia, 1,286; New Brunswick, 1,418; Prince Edward Island 217; Manitoba, 1,743; British Columbia, 3,303; Saskatchewan, 1,180; Alberta, 2,020.
